EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

JAEHNE is helping to laundry shirts in Sing Sing.

IN every encounter thus far between the Greeks and Turks the former have been successful.

IT looks as if Maxwell, being tried for Preller's murder in St. Louis, will soon dangle at the end of a rope.

THE Canadians have attacked us in a very tender spot when they refuse to permit us to fish in their waters.

NINE years and ten months for Jaehne—time enough to think it all over calmly and decide whether the boodle was worth the price.

COL. THOS. J. GRIMISON, of Philadelphia, is strongly supported throughout the State as a candidate for the Republican nomination for auditor general.

WITH 10 years given to Jaehne in New York and 12 years to McPhillamy in New Castle, the notorious rascals of both grades seem to be catching it all around.

THERE is a flavor of old-fashioned unadulterated justice about Judge Barrett's remarks in sentencing Jaehne. It will leave a bad taste in the mouth of the boodlers.

DR DIO LEWIS, after spending a long life giving people instruction about how to live long and healthy, on last Friday gave up his own life. His death was the result of an accident.

MR. GLADSTONE'S Home Rule bill seems to be gaining friends and supporters in the Commons daily, and there is an apparent probability that it will be carried on second reading.

THE Mugwump organs are now discussing "the President and the Mugwumps." This implies a concession. It used to be "the Mugwumps and the President." Things are adjusting themselves.

THE Governor of New York has approved a bill permitting women to practice law. Quite right. If men can't hold their own in the legal profession without being fenced in, let them go under.

THE statement that Mr. Parnell has induced sixty-four Irish orators to refrain from speaking on home rule, should make him the most popular man in England. But it seems likely to strain his hold on the obedience of the Irish orators,

THE lawmakers at Washington think nothing of getting up pension bills appropriating $25 000 000 to $50 000 000 annually from the treasury, but when it comes to appropriating for a single year a similar sum for the national defense they falter.

WITH one gathering of Knights of Labor at St. Louis endorsing Powderly and another looking for Irons to give him a practical application of his style of boycotting, the campaign of the latter for the head position in the K. of L. does not seem to be a roseate one.

THE cholera has appeared in Italy and in the South of France much earlier this year than in any former years, and of course there is more danger of its spreading over Europe during the long summer. There is danger, too, that it may be carried to America.

LOUIS LINGG, the young man who is supposed to have manufactured the bomb used against the Chicago policeman, is such a zealot in his devotion to Anarchism that he tells the police that he would be happy to lay down his life for the cause. If to be a martyr is what he wants, all he has to do is to go to Texas and steal a horse.

THE odor of orange blossoms is heavy on the air. Intelligence about the weddings of two sovereigns and a royal prince who will one day be a sovereign if he lives, appears among recent news. Ex Gov. Long, of Massachusetts, has married a pretty school ma'am; the Crown Prince of Portugal will soon marry the Princess Amelia d' Orleans, and the date of President Cleveland's marriage is authoritatively announced. We dare say that the American brides—one de facto and the other elect—are brighter and better-looking young women than the royal one.

The Labor Question.

Congressman Kelly, of Pennsylvania, in his remarks on the labor question, more truly voices the sentiments of the disinterested class of intelligent citizens than any other person who has expressed his views on the subject, Mr. Powderly not excepted. But even Mr. Kelly's sentiments, as expressed, are only partially correct and their adaptability vague and undefined. The only correct inferences that can be drawn from them are that "supply and demand" regulates the price of labor and the amount to be performed. Now, these two quantities are but effects from causes preceding them, which the honorable gentleman fails to see or recognize. "Primarily" causes are spiritual and generate in Nature and by her implanted in the mind of man, consequently "demand and supply" cannot "primarily" have anything to do in regulating the amount of labor required or its price.

As the laws of Nature bring every human being into existences on an equality with each other, it can be logically and correctly inferred that her laws justly enforced would secure to each human a competency for his or her labor. Through the acquisitiveness and selfishness of the dishonest few these laws, which enforced, would bring happiness to man, are completely ignored, and in their stead a system of laws, cunningly devised, without equity or justice, put in force that virtually protects the right of the few to rob the many of their share of the products of their own labor. Under and by these laws perpetual monopolies with almost unrestrained, powers are created and protected. These monopolies are organized capital which not only fixes the price of labor but the prices of all necessaries of life as well as manufactured articles of commerce. The inveitable result of such action on the part of monopolies will be the destruction of our Republican form of government and the erection in its place of a monied monarchy, for organized capital and monarchy are one and the same thing both in principle and in fact.

Through instruction received under our common school system the young mind is trained to yearn for personal liberty, adjusted by an equitable Republican form of government. This yearning mind is met on the threshold of manhood by organized capital, which commands obedience to its behests and relegates him to a position where he can only hope, by the closest economy, to eke out a scanty subsistence, with no hope of ever receiving anything more for his labor. Hence it is that the labor question is continually rising to the surface of public opinion, until in the minds of many it has become the great question of the day. It is an irrepressible conflict between our education and unjust laws enacted by organized capital, and the agitation will continue until those laws are repealed and equitable ones enacted in their stead, or our educational system abolished and the producers of the land, through ignorance, become virtually slaves. From the past history of this Republic and monopolistic rule we have evidence that the "labor question" cannot be settled by "labor strikes;" not by non-political labor organization; not by electing monopolistic legislators; not by and with the advice and consent of aggregated organized capital or its parasites. The labor question can be properly settled and beneficially to all classes, by the enactment and enforcement of equitable laws guaranteeing personal liberty to all. Can such a settlement be brought about? Are the ranks of the toiling producers of the wealth of the country sufficiently educated in their duty to themselves and posterity to bring about such a settlement. That they permit a few monopolists to control their actions evidences the fact that they are not. If not, when will labor have requisite enlightenment and the moral courage to enforce it?

D. S. DUNHAM.

THE time has been when Gladstone was known as "the hope of the stern, unbending Tories." He has lived to become their terror. His opinions liberalized, and he got close to the people. He drew the Scotch to him, and represents a Scotch constituency. Now he is drawing the Irish to him also, and in fighting their cause displays the same magnificent vigor and courage that have so often carried him to victory.

Civil Service Work.

Dorman B. Eaton, John M. Gregory and Leroy D. Thoman are the civil service commissioners and have sent us their report for 1884-5. In 134 pages it gives all the information needed about how to secure a position in the postal or customs departments. It seems quite easy and simple. We don't know how much this commission costs the government, but if it is costly we doubt the wisdom of continuing it. It is the province of these gentlemen to regulate the examinations of those who apply for positions. The report states that of 6 347 examined during the past year 4,141 attained the minimum of 65 per cent., which makes them eligible for appointment, and 2,206 failed to show that degree of proficiency, and consequently are ineligible for appointment. Of those examined over 65 per cent. succeeded; and the average age was nearly 30 years. The education of those examined during the year (exclusive of the 791 who took the special examinations) was as follows: 3 920 only in the common schools, 1,096 in part in high schools or academies, 91 in part in business colleges, 449 in part in colleges. More than seventy per cent. of them, therefore, had only a public-school education. The particulars, which are not now available, of the education of the 791 would not largely change the above proportions.

The whole number of appointments made during the past year from those examined, each being for the probationary period of six months, has been 1,806; during the prior six months it was 516.

Every one of these examinations has been open to all alike, without regard to political or religious opinions. No question and no action of the Commission has imposed any political or religious test or called for the disclosure of any political or religious opinion; and in not more than a dozen instances, and then only by chance, has a commission known the political or religious views or affiliations of those examined.

The act of Congress creating the commission was approved January 16, 1883. If the figures given above are correct, the law seems to be quite a commendable one, and we don't want our readers to think it was passed by the Democrats. If there is any good in it the Republicans claim the credit.

GRAND MASTER WORKMAN T V. POWDERLY is one of the sharpest, keenest writers we know of. He is also very clear and easily comprehended. He seems to write quite voluminously and expresses himself at times elegantly. The subject of the boycott drew from him a recent letter in which he says that the objectionable custom was first introduced years ago by the employer of labor. It was quite common for employers to blacklist (boycott) a workman and through their influence render it impossible for him to obtain employment. They have also boycotted skilled, expensive labor by importing cheap labor to take its place—boycotted Americans to benefit foreigners. Here is one of his original thoughts on the subject: "A false idea of economy takes possession of the employer before he inaugurates this system of boycotting. He believes that if he get labor, or commodity, for nothing he will reap immense profits. Let us follow that a little further and find out what he reaps. Suppose that every workingman in the United States would agree to work for nothing for the next 12 months; how much money would be in circulation at the end of the year? How many men would be employed? How many factories would be in running operation? How many manufacturers would set up a yell at the end of the year for somebody with money to buy what was manufactured during the year?" Thus the short-sighted employers of labor, by sowing the wind, are reaping the whirlwind.

MRS. PENDLETON, wife of Hon. Geo. Pendleton, minister to Germany from this country, was killed last week in Central Park, New York, by jumping from a carriage upon the hard gravel road. Her daughter, who was in the carriage, jumped from it at the same time, but escaped without severe injuries. The horse attached to the conveyance had become frightened and at the time was running rapidly through the park. Had the ladies remained in, however, they would probably have escaped, as the horse afterward ran into a bush where it was stopped. The ladies had been summoned to New York from Germany to take care of a lady relative who is ill, Mr. Pendleton remaining in Germany.

Conkling's Ambition.

Ex-Senator Roscoe Conkling occupied a seat in the Supreme Court the other day. As he sat there other attorneys passed him, sometimes tramping on his toes. Several times the haughty Conkling turned up his nose, but that fact did not prevent the lawyers pushing past him as usual.

He could not endure it any longer, and at length drew himself up to his full height and uttered the remark—"My greatest ambition is to attain some position where I will not be tramped upon!"

What does Conkling mean? About the only position we know of that puts one above contact with other people is that of President of the United States, and a President who wont associate with his fellow citizens will not be popular.

Therefore, we fear that Roscoe has an ambition that he will never realize the attainment of. We regret this, for in many ways he is a model gentleman. But if he lives long enough he will have an apportunity to vote for James G. Blaine, the man who sympathises with the people, for President of these United States.

A Sweet Temper.

No trait of character is more valuable in a woman than the possession of a sweet temper. Home can never be made happy without it; it is like the flowers that spring up in our pathway, reviving and cheering us. Let a man go home at night weary and worn by the toils of the day, and how soothing is a word dictated by a good disposition! It is the sunshine falling on his heart; he is happy and the cares of life are forgotten. A sweet temper has a very soothing influence over the minds of a whole family. Where it is found in the wife and mother you observe kindness and love predominating over the natural feeling of a bad heart. We find her the affectionate and ardent instructress of the children whom she has tended from their infancy, training them to thought and truth, addressing [illegible] to become men and women in their turn. Smiles, kind words and looks characterize the children and peace and love have their dwelling there. Study, then, to acquire and retain a sweet temper. It is more valuable than gold; it captivates more than beauty and retains its freshness and power to the close of life.

A PROPOSITION has been made in Congress to make an amendment to our national constitution, providing for a second Vice President. It is a question whether our whole manner of electing President and Vice President should not be changed and while proper provision should be made for the succession in case of death or inability to perform the duties of these offices could not the cumberous machinery of the electoral college be abandoned? With but a trifling change in our manner of election we could get rid of the bother of election of electors and have the President and Vice President elected by a direct vote of the people, still preserving the proper representation of the States. For instance, why should it be necessary for Pennsylvania to elect 29 electors, and they meet to cast the vote of the State, months after the election? Let Pennsylvania have 29 votes for President and other States their vote according to their representation in Congress, but it is not necessary to elect 29 men to cast this vote. The popular vote of the state is known soon after the election and a certified return of that vote from the State Department to Congress ought to be as sufficient as the casting of this vote by electors. While changes are being proposed and while there is need felt for improvement, it might be as well to go over the whole ground and remodel the entire system of our national elections. This will be done some day and now when popular attention is awaked to this matter is as favorable a time as any for the purpose.

DECORATION, or Memorial day, as it is now called, will this year be invested with a renewed and peculiar interest and sadness to soldiers' and citizens because that since the last decoration of the graves of the veterans, two of the prominent leaders of the Union army. Grant and Hancock, now lie in the silent cities of the dead. One by one the heroes are fighting their last battle with the last great enemy, and ere many years, other hands than soldiers' will have to do this memorial service for the dead heroes of our country.

An Increase of Importations.

An indication of a rather important commercial movement is given by recently published figures from the Bureau of Statistics, showing that the imports of merchandise into the United States in March, 1886, amounted to $60,081,077, as compared with $52 976,345 in March of the previous year. Nearly two millions of this increase was in the one item of woolen goods. It has been, as a general rule, the law of foreign trade movements that our imports decreased when our people were forced to economy and did not increase until prosperous times made them once more lavish in expenditures. This seems to be an exception to the rule, and its appearance just at this time is a warning that the margin between the cost of domestic and foreign goods is not so large but that there is danger of the demand being supplied largely from foreign sources. It is also the result of insufficient tariff on imported goods. It is a shame that, when the people of this country are suffering such great poverty, from want of work, people will patronize foreign workmen to a greater extent even than in former years.

The Rules to be Changed.

[From Tuesday's DAILY NEWS]

When the Republican State Committee met a short time ago a committee was appointed to revise the rules, particularly that relating to apportionment of representatives in the State Convention. The rule at present in force provides that the representation shall be the same as the representatives in the State Legislature—House and Senate—called representative and senatorial delegates. The committee has not yet agreed upon a report, but will have a meeting to day. A report has been prepared and will be submitted and doubtless adopted. It abolishes entirely the senatorial delegates and bases the representation on the population. One delegate is given to every 2 000 Republican votes. For instance, a county polling 4,000 Republican votes shall be entitled to two delegates, 6,000 [illegible] over 1,000 will be entitled [illegible] additional number [illegible] delegate.

Col. Hastings is the chairman of this committee and believes that these rules will be adopted. They commend themselves to our judgment as excellent.

THE latest news from Sunset Cox at Constantinople is that he is about to co-operate with the Sultan and take a census of Turkey. Mr. Cox's experience as chairman of the Census Committee qualifies him for the task, and he will be able to give the Turkish statistician valuable points. As the United States is loaning this tottering and effete monarchy the valuable $10,000 a-year services of its Minister to aid in taking the census, why not send over a batch of pretty lady clerks to teach the Turks how to add quickly? A present of this kind we are sure would be appreciated. It is doubtful, however, in view of the fact that the census of 1880 is not yet finished, if they can be spared.

QUITE a job in the way of heavy lifting will have to be performed by the Chicago firm who intend to hoist the Robinson House seven feet in the air. The undertaking while of great magnitude, is simple in the methods employed. If it was necessary to do it modern science would find a way to underpin the pyramids of Egypt and lift them up on jack-screws.

R. H. THOMAS, Secretary of the State Grange, consented to accept the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, if tendered him. This would make him a very doubting Thomas—Centre Hall Reporter. Not doubting all, Freddie; because he thinks he would be elected. Neither would he be doubtful, because we believe his election would be certain.

A NOTE of dissatisfaction with Congressman Boyle is now heard from old Westmoreland. Being represented by a first-class man in Congress does not seem to afford any satisfaction to the mountain buttressed Bourbons of Western Pennsylvania, unless the offices are handed around in that impartial and likewise impossible manner that suits everybody.

IF our Government permits Canadian vessels to make war on American vessels whenever they touch in Canadian waters, it will soon come to a state of affairs where there will be an imperative demand for a little more virility in the way of a Government. Strenuous means should be taken to insert something like a back-bone in the State Department.

GENERAL NOTES.

Ex-President Arthur's weight has decreased from 250 pounds to 130.

A horse near Springfield, Ill., has killed and eaten six geese this year.

The Woman's Club, of New Orleans, has 80 members in good standing.

Prince Krapotkine, the anarchist, is very bald and benevolent-looking.

This season 839 cars of oranges have been shipped by Sacramento to the East.

Roses 17 and 18 inches in circumference are common products of Southern California.

A banana skin rightly located forms as much of an obstruction to the highway as would a mule.

A trapper in Pomfret, Vt., caught 2,610 skunks during the winter, and has just sold their hides for about $400

Chief Justice Waite hopes to be able to pass his summer vacation in Alaska—the coolest corner of the country.

At Petersburg, Va., stealing flowers from graves has become so common that the police have been compelled to interfere.

Samuel J. Tilden's yacht, the Viking, has been fitted up for a cruise which her owner is going to undertake this summer.

Italian railroads, it is said, reduce by 65 per cent the fares of all dog-bitten persons who go to consult Pasteur, at Paris

Thomas W. Kean, the actor, is negotiating with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the sale of some of his Staten Island property.

A snapping turtle that weighed 70 lbs. and measured over three feet in length, was captured in a pond at Cold Spring, L. I., a few days ago.

Chang Yen Hoon, the new Chinese minister, dropped in at Senator Logan's house on a large sewing bee, and greatly astonished the ladies.

The little son of John Reed, of Byron, Me, treed a little bear the other day and captured it. The cub weighed only two pounds and a half.

President Carter's health has been greatly benefited by his vacation in Florida, and he has returned to his duties at Williams College.

Not a Chinaman now lives in Lewis county, Wyo. T., where there were 600 a year ago. There are said to be only 55 now remaining in Seattle.

The craze for glass-eating grows. John Badner, of Marlborough, found within a big shad the other day a piece of lamp chimney as large as a dollar.

Out of 401 members of Congress 158 are college graduates. Harvard leads with 10 men, and closely followed by the [illegible] 8

The grandfather of the present Duke of New Castle, who is about to make a visit to this country, came to the United States in 1860 as the special guardian of the young Prince of Wales.

Charlemagne Tower, a Philadelphia millionaire, is said to have given $100,000 for the establishment of a Baptist university at Tower City, D. T., which town was once owned and named for him.

The grave of Parmentier in the Pere la Chaise at Paris is annually planted with potatoes. He was the first to introduce the cultivation of the potato into France, and the people thus honor his memory.

A man at Walnut Creek, Cal., stole some paste diamonds from two burlesque actresses. Believing them to be genuine, he stole a horse to enable him to get away more quickly, and was arrested on the latter charge only.

A stick of timber 150 feet long and 18 inches at the butt and straight as a penholder was shipped from Olympia, W. T., last week. It was the finest piece of timber ever shipped down the sound and was intended for a flag staff at Port Discovery.

The Apache Indians who have been educated in the English language gather up and preserve all the newspapers while on their hostile raids, and then pass their leisure time in reading the comments made upon their movements and barbarities.

Five members of a Portland (Me.) family are ship masters—father and four sons—and an equal number of a family in Ohio have entered the church, and a sixth is at college with the same object in view. Another brother is also taking a collegiate course, but as yet has not settled upon what business or profession to enter.

A young boy who recently left his St. Paul home to attend a preparatory school is not much taken with the change. He is suffering from his first case of homesickness, and naturally desires to return to his home. In making known his desires to his father in a recent letter he said: "Dear Father—Life is very short; let us spend it together. Your affectionate son."

The German Government believes that linguists as well as geographers may be used for the advancement of the interests of the empire. Accordingly, a bill has been submitted to the Federal Council for the establishment of a chair for Eastern languages at the Berlin University. It is proposed that half of the expense should be borne by the empire and the other half by Persia.

Shakespeare's birthplace, the trustees report, was visited last year by nearly 14,000 people, who paid the usual admission fee. The trustees have over £2,500 in consuls, and purchased deeds of lease and release from Sir John Clofton to Hugh Clofton (dated January, 1699) for the property at New place (Stratford-on-Avon), where Shakespeare spent the last days of his life, and where he died.

Poetry.

THE LITTLE.

Only a wee little mortal,
Asleep on the nursery floor,
'Mid a pile of neglected playthings,
Which litter the whole room o'er.
Two little fists at arms lying over a curly head
And smiles which awaken the dimples,
Parting the lips so red.

Her baby's dolly with arms and legs broken,
And a terrible crack on her head,
And her cheeks washed white as a lily,
That once was so rosy and red.
Poor Fido, the puppy, is whining;
Poor fellow, no wonder you wail!
I wonder what mischievous fingers
Fastened that cup to your tail?

It was only that wee little mortal,
Asleep on the nursery floor;
And nurse stands aghast at the litter
Which covers the whole room o'er.
Well, pick them up patiently, nurse,
Over and over again.
E'en though that bundle of mischief
Will make all your labor but vain.

Better a home with a baby,
And a floor all littered with toys,
Than one that is empty forever
Of childish prattle and noise,
So here's a kiss for the darling!
On forehead, mouth and chin,
And wherever I find a dimple
I'll snuggle the kisses in.

Our Story Teller.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER.

"It is my opinion that that will be a match."

Mrs. Slimborn's voice expressed genuine satisfaction. Her daughter, Miss Birdie Slimborn, playing a brilliant waltz in the hotel parlor, and James Nicklespoon, Esq., engaged in turning the young lady's leaves, were the subjects of this remark.

"Then you like Mr. Nicklespoon?" Mrs. Slimborn's companion inquired.

"Oh! very much! He is a perfect gentleman, and enormously wealthy, you know."

"So I have heard," said the plain little woman in black silk and thread lace, who was evidently watching the proceedings at the piano with considerable interest; "and I have also heard," she added, "that Mr. Nicklespoon was somewhat dissipated."

"Not to speak of, I think," Mrs. Slimborn responded, a smiling face turned to the young couple at the piano. "Mr Nicklespoon may be a little gay," she went on lightly, "but my dear Mrs. Beaufort, you wouldn't recommend a minister for a son-in-law, would you?"

"If the minister were a good man, and your daughter loved the minister, most certainly!" the little lady replied. "If Mr. Nicklespoon were to lose his money, has he anything to depend upon, Mrs. Slimborn?" she inquired.

"Mercy on us!" the maneuvering woman exclaimed. "You don't know what you are talking about, Mrs. Beaufort. His place on the Hudson, is worth half a million at least. Mr. Nicklespoon lose his money!"

This was so comical and preposterous a suggestion that Mrs. Slimborn was obliged to ask pardon for being so exceedingly impolite as to laugh in her companion's face.

"Your daughter is a fine pianist," Mrs. Beaufort remarked, after her neighbor's merriment had subsided.

"She ought to be," said the pianist's mamma. "We have spent thousands of dollars on her musical education. I left everything and went abroad with her for two years, just for the sake of having her perfected, you know," Mrs. Slimborn ran on. "Dear me, I did think I should die with homesickness and ennui. Birdie's teacher didn't want her to come back for two or three years more, do you think; but of course that was all nonsense."

"In what way was it nonsense?" Mrs. Beaufort inquired.

"Don't you think she can play well enough as it is? If we had been educating her for a public performer, that would have been different."

"I suppose she could teach music."

This plain lady dressed in black silk and thread lace seemed determined to be disagreeable; but as she happened to be the distinguished wife of a very wealthy and distinguished man, Mrs. Slimborn felt constrained to put up with her eccentricities.

"Birdie teach music!" Mrs. Slimborn was again very much amused. "Why, she is the most nervous creature in the world, and extremely delicate. You wouldn't think it to look at her, but Birdie cries at the least thing. This used to annoy the professors so much when we were abroad, but she is so sensitive, poor child."

"I suppose your daughter's study of music was thorough?" Mrs. Beaufort remarked.

"Well, in a way," Mrs. Slimborn replied, "I had her skip harmony and thorough bass, and all that nonsense. They weren't necessary for her, you see. We wanted her to be just what she is, a brilliant performer, able to read difficult music at sight, and all that you know."

"In other words, Mrs. Slimborn, you desired your daughter to shine in society!" said the little woman in black silk.

"That's about it!" Mrs. Slimborn replied, frankly. "We mothers have a fearful responsibility, for so much depends on the way we begin with our daughter. If they are not well settled, then they have the most perfect right to blame us."

"So much depend on what you mean by well settled," Mrs. Slimborn's neighbor remarked. "If parents educate their daughter, as they do their sons, to be self-supporting—"

"Self supporting?" Mrs. Slimborn interrupted with with a frightened expression of countenance. "You don't mean to work and take care of themselves?"

"That is precisely what I mean," the lady responded. "If, for instance, you had seen to it that your daughter had studied music so thoroughly as to be able to teach it if occasion required then you would have secured her against the future."

"Excuse me," said Mrs. Slimborn, with some coolness; "but if you will allow me to make a personal matter of it, I should like to ask if you have educated your daughters on this plan?"

The little lady in black silk smiled pleasantly.

"My oldest daughter, Mrs. Slimborn," she answered, "is now perfecting herself in dressmaking. To use a more plebian expression, she has learned a trade. She made the dress, Mrs Slimborn, that you admired so much to-day at dinner. Her taste ran in this direction, and my aim has been to have her learn everthing that can be learned of the science of dressmaking. If anything were to happen now or in the future which made it necessary for her to support herself, she could do it. My youngest daughter has graduated from college, and will return this fall to take up astronomy with the professor of that institution. To add a little to this personal narrative, Mrs. Slimborn," and now the little lady laughed heartily, "it is my desire that both my daughters shall live lives of single blessedness."

"Mercy on me! old maids!" Mrs. Slimborn exclaimed.

"Old maids unless their husbands are their equals in the qualities that insure happiness to married life," said Mrs. Beaufort, earnestly. "To bury my daughters, Mrs. Slimborn," she added, "would be a light trouble compared with giving them to unprincipled and dissolute men. Wealth my daughters can live without if need be, but honor is indispensable."

The music had ceased, and Miss Birdie had walked away with her admirer. Mrs. Slimborn, a good deal dazed, and more shocked by what she had heard excused herself, as soon as she could, and w[illegible]

The next day the formal announcement was made of the engagement between James Nicklespoon, Esq., and Miss Birdie Slimborn.

That morning Mr. Nicklespoon celebrated his engagement by getting drunk.

"Boys must be boys!" Mrs. Slimborn remarked when the news came to her, and both she and her daughter commented jokingly on the young man's dissipated appearance the next day. Mr. Nicklespoon's place on the Hudson, Mr. Nicklespoon's town house, and unlimited means fully compensated in the eyes of both mother and daughter for any and every "indiscretion" which Mr. Nicklespoon might be guilty of.

Early in the fall Mr. Nicklespoon and Miss Slimborn were married. Mrs. Beaufort, aware of the rottenness upon which this union was built, noticed with absorbing interest the career of this young couple.

It just took four years for Mr. Nicklespoon to get through with his property, and at the expiration of that time Mrs. Nicklespoon was obliged to flee to her parents not only for shelter, but for protection against the dissipated wretch to whom her mother had been in such haste to marry her. Mr. Slimborn, who had speculated on the expectation of financial assistance from his wealthy son-in-law, finally failed in business, and soon after died. Mrs. Slimborn, her daughter and grandchild, are objects of charity, neither women having the ability to contribute in the slightest manner to her own support. Mrs. Beaufort, full of pity for their misfortune, found a few music scholars for Mrs. Nicklespoon, but that lady's superficial education, notwithstanding her two years abroad, made it impossible for her to give satisfaction.

"I told you Birdie couldn't teach!" Mrs. Slimborn remarked one day to Mrs. Beaufort. "I didn't educate her for a teacher; and then her sensibilities are much too fine for such drudgery."

"It wasn't any use to say anything to her," Mrs. Beaufort remarked afterward; "but it seems to me the story of these two women ought to be written. Perhaps some mother who reads it will think less of her daughter's marriage and more of her education. If mothers would only find out what their girls are fitted for and then see to it that they learn thoroughly whatever they take up, always with self-support in view, a world of misery would be saved. Marriage under most conditions is a lottery," she continued; "and the proper education of our girls is the only thing in life that will ever make it less so."

The Golden Wedding in Unionville.

Life has its seasons of care and grief, its sad partings, its pleasant greetings: hours of social communion with dear ones which can never, never be forgotten. Of such was the golden wedding of our aged and highly esteemed friends, A. N. Russell and wife, which was celebrated on the 6th inst., at the residence of their son-in-law I. E. Griest.

Language fails to give an accurate idea of an event so grand and impressive.

Amongst the 30 individuals present were the children, namely, Dr. E. A. Russell and wife, Almeda Thompson and husband, Mary Henchey, wife of Reverend Henchey of Girardville; Mattie C. Griest and husband and two grandchildren. Nearest relatives: Mary Ann Griest, (an aged sister of the bride) and her daughter Mary Ewer, both from Newcastle Pa. The bride and groom neatly and elegantly attired were (notwithstanding Time's traces) a noble and attractive looking couple, with mental faculties unimpaired and, so youthful in hearts and feelings, one could scarcely imagine that the buds and blossoms of half a century had faded since their wedding vows were plighted.

When all were assembled the following poems sent by a friend in Adams County entitled 'Love's Glory" and "The Golden Wedding" were read by their daughter-in-law, Louisa Russell;

LOVE'S GLORY.

1836—1886.

O sweet is life to youth and maid
When Love in springtime glory,
Comes like the lilacs, hinting all
The summer's changeful story.

And deep is life when joys and cares
Have blent two souls together,
Till love is like the rooted oak,
Secure in every weather.

And grand is life as man and wife,
When ripened age have crowned them,
Stand like the spreading banyan tree,
With children's children round them.

Now in their restful harvest prime
The bygone years of sowing
The good works done, the trials won,
Come back in golden showing.

The tyrant Winter's reign is o'er
And from their earthly prison
The population of the spring
In beauty has arisen

The myriad bladed grass and grain,
The little wondrous faces
Of wilding flowers crowd up again
In all the accustomed places

The cat-bird sings the whole day long
Among the apple-blossoms,
And all the air's alive with song
From little gleeful bosoms.

The smiling sun on smiling fields
His seas of gold is shedding,
[illegible] year

And gentle deeds like hidden seeds
That seemed to leave no traces,
Bloom forth afresh in loving hearts,
And shine in neighbor's faces.

Then long life to thee and wife—
Fair be your golden wedding,
And may your name and wholesome fame
Keep like the banyan spreading.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Through fifty years of hopes and fears,
Of bright and cloudy weather;
Of joys and griefs, of smiles and tears
Ye have passed your days together.

Grown old? Ah! no, for long ago,
In word past all forgetting
'Twas said that they were youngest who
Were nearest to life's setting.

Younger in heart, although the hair
Shows less of black and golden,
And though the step be slower than
In days long past and olden.
Younger in heart, although the eye
Be dimmer in its glances,
And though the mind go straying back
To by-gone youthful fancies.

Full fifty years ago ye stood
With hopeful hearts and faces,
Scarce thinking such a lapse of time
Would find you in these places.
Ye promised then in solemn tones
To share each other's crosses,
In weal divide the well-earned gains,
In woe help bear the losses.

To-day how you have kept that vow
We know whose eyes behold you,
And how through all a Father's love
Seemed nearer to enfold you.
That Friend, who in our hours of trial,
Clings closer than a brother
Has soothed you e'en as you have soothed
The sorrows of each other.

Around your knees have children played
With merry laugh and prattle,
Who now, with armor girded on,
Have entered life's stern battle;
Hot is the strife, yet those who win,
By right and firm endeavor
Shall wear upon triumphant brows
The victor's crown forever.

Dear trusting hearts! for all these years
Of life so short and fleeting,
Your comfort oft has been the thought
Of your eternal meeting;
Then, after years of sun and storm,
Of bright and cloudy weather,
In God's own household may you spend
Eternity together.

Although no presents were desired, valuable gifts from the children and two nieces were brought in by F. E. Griest.

Appropriate remarks were made with much feeling by their son Dr. E. A. Russell, followed by Doctor Blair, in regard to the ancient customs of the family circle, handed down from generation to generation, which he believed would continue so long as the sacred ties of love and friendship exist.

To render the occasion more interesting and elegant, the following beautiful poem, written expressly for the event by P. W. Weekly, was read by L. A. R.:

LIFE'S PICTURES.

I.

May 6, 1836.

A sweet May morn,
The sun is bright;
A day new-born
In rosy light;
Fruit trees in bloom,
A mass of white.

The earth is clad
In garments gray;
Two hearts are glad
On this fair day;
A loving pair
Go on their way.

Beyond compare
Her love-lit face,
And see her wear
With charming grace
The cherry bloom
In fitting place.

A gallant youth
Stands by her side;
His heart of truth
Whate'er betide,
Shall shelter still
His trusting bride.

Oh joy in heaven,
O'er this new birth!
A home is given
To love on earth,
And roses bloom
Where once was dearth.

II.

April 18, 1837.

The scene is changed; we gladly greet
Our faithful friends once more;
Their cup of happiness was full,—
But now 'tis running o'er
With heart aflt pride and joy;
Oh, handsome baby boy
Borne on swift wings of love
From sunny realms above!
Guardian angels e'er attend him.

III.

The summers come, the winters go,
Our monarch wears his crown,
Yet fleeting as all things below—
E'en now he lays it down;
A graceful girl from fairy land
Now grasps it in her dimpled hand.

Upon her queenly brow she'll wear it,
Nor ever dream she ought to share it,
The household hearts her lofty throne,
Ah! there she reigns by love alone.

IV.

The Angel of Life new gifts bestows;
The family circle larger grows,
And still they journey side by side
Faith, hope and love with them abide.

V.

The shadows fall;
The home of rest
Now entertains
A ruthless guest;
He enters slow
And one must go
Who then must heed the fatal call?
Alas the fairest flower of all.
Ah! bleeding hearts are bending low,
Like roses after rain;
Shrouded in gloom all things below,
And life is only pain;
Fain would the weary be at rest,
And dwell with Christ amongst the blest.

Oh, stricken hearts, to eyes of faith
The golden gates unbar;
A glimpse of glory is revealed,
'Tis shining now afar,—
Just inside the pearly portals,
Blooming with the bright Immortals,
See those blighted blossoms given
New life in the fields of Heaven,
[illegible]
Your home is there in realms of day,
Take up life's burden once again,
And mourn not o'er the might have been
In God's own time you shall find rest,
In that fair Kingdom of the Blest;
And live in joy forever more
With all the loved ones gone before.

VI.

Half a century has flown,
Since you faced the world alone;
Many friends, both kind and true,
Loving greetings send to you,
Walking still the path of life—
Faithful husband, loving wife!
Peaceful may the journey prove,
Sheltered by a daughter's love,
Cherished by your children all,
May no sorrow e'er befall,
But sweet mem'ries of the past
Fill your hearts with joy at last,
And sunshine from that May day olden
Hallow this, your wedding golden.

May many happy years, dear friends,
Be added to your sum;
Then, late at last, your life work done,
May shining angels come,
And bear you to that home above,
Where "Love is heaven and heaven is Love."

Next came a dinner of dinners—a table sighing beneath the weight of roasts, cakes, oranges, ice cream and every good thing imaginable, arranged with the most exquisite taste by the queenly daughters. Refreshments over, time still passed so pleasantly that all deemed it an enjoyable event, an oasis in the monotony of life. May the loving children who so nobly and beautifully commemorated the golden hours of their dear parents be rewarded by the promise given those who honor father and mother.

Unionville, E. W. C.

A War Reminiscence.

The following story, in which the "War Governor" of Pennsylvania figures prominently, is told in the Los Vegas (New Mexico) "Optic," by Jap Turpen, its Washington correspondent. The incident related is a true one and shows the Governor's noble nature. The man who furnishes the facts is employed in the treasury at $60 a month:

"Lord, how I wish Andy Curtin was President," a man with an empty sleeve, observed in my presence lately. The speaker had led a company of Buck tails through the valley to the battle of the Wilderness, where he left an arm. He is now doing vigorous duty on a salary of $60 per month. "If Andy Curtin was President the spirit of the law that prefers a soldier would be enforced," continued the speaker. "He was the war Governor of Pennsylvania. All of his great warm heart was in the cause, and there was something fatherly in his sense of responsibility."

A farmer walked into the executive office at Harrisburg shortly after the firing on Fort Sumter, and said to Curtin: "Governor, I have five sons whom I have carefully educated, and of whom I am very proud. I know them to be honest, industrious and unassuming. Though I could not discourage them from serving their country, their enlistment gave me great pain. All may return; some may come back to me, or they may all die; I only know that no boy of mine will avoid his duty as a soldier. Now I ask you in event, that, one is killed, or all are killed, to assist me in bringing the remains home. It is only a sentiment I know, but I want the bones of my family to repose together."

"I will do that, my neighbor," answered the Governor, with feeling, "I will do that."

Within a few months the farmer returned: "Governor," he said, "one of my boys has been killed," giving the name of the regiment.

Governor Curtin sent to the field and brought the remains home.

This continued until after Gettysburg, where the last of the five sons was slain.

Curtin remembers no tears while the war was on. He performed this as a duty. There is no weeping amid the leaden hail and iron tempest of battle.

It is with a feeling of agony, too deep for tears, that the dead are buried and wounded helped.

The clouds drifted away, the cannon hushed, peace had come—the gay laughed and each one as before pursued his favorite pastime. Other interests formulated and joint stocks organized to garner "the fruits of victory."

General Grant as President, nominated Curtin for the Russian mission. For years he represented American interests at the court of St. Petersburg. It was in 1872 that he returned to America. Shortly after this event the governor received an invitation to make a visit that reflection induced him to accept. The invitation was from the farmer.

The court dinners at which the ambassador, as guest attended abroad may have surpassed this in pomp and circumstance—the glitter of wares and grace of trained waiters, but there was an honest, elegant hospitality gracing this Pennsylvania farmer's board:

"Like the benediction
That follows after prayer"

Unrivaled and unsurpassed in any quarter of the globe, mellowed as it is by Christianity and generosity begotten of conscious abundance, is the hospitality of honest farmer.

The conversation, says Curtin, embraced a wide variety of subjects, but no reference during the entertainment was made to the dead.

The dinner over, the question was asked: "Will you look at the farm, Governor?"

God pity the man who cannot always regard the farm with its inclosures of grain, meadow and orchard, with new and never failing interests. Thurman, the noblest Roman of them all, the greatest of the Democrats, never wearies studying the farm and the opera—the contemplation of either enraptures and delights him.

Together they strolled, observing in the stock and field, a miracle of beauty and the faithful fulfilment of God's promise to industry. At last the farmer paused and pointed to an inclosed knoll with a choked utterance said: "There are my boys; there they are!" These words alone were spoken, but the two old men knelt and wept like children.

A Beautiful Schoolmarm.

One of ex-Governor Long's daughters, Miss Bertha, is still in her school days, and some time ago the ex-Gov. was looking about for a seminary to which he might send her. He wrote to several institutions for information about the curriculum, system of training, accommodations, etc. All of the replies were the printed regulation circulars except one. This was a curiosity. It was from the principal of a young ladies' seminary near Worcester, Mass. It is stated that the institution was as good as the average; that the course was lacking in some important points; that the location was not so healthful as it might be; that the water supply was only tolerable; that the building was comfortable, but lacked the modern conveniences; that the corps of teachers was not large enough; that the seminary had no influential references; that the daughters of no distinguished people had ever been educated there.

Governor Long was perfectly astonished. Here was a seminary that was not the best on earth. The next day he went out to Worcester with his daughter, called at the school and inquired for the lady whose name was signed to the letter. When she made her appearance he was greeted by one of the most beautiful women he had ever seen. With a merry twinkle in her eye she expressed surprise that the Governor had come to see the seminary after reading her discouraging letter, but he told her that since all the other institutions in Massachusetts were faultless he would like to see one that was not. The result was that, after an examination of the place, Governor Long left his daughter in charge of the pretty schoolmarm.

During the autumn months, and until the meeting of Congress, Gov. Long paid an unusual amount of attention to his child, and scarcely let a week pass without spending a day at her school. Miss Bertha was a little surprised, as her father had never shown as great a desire for her society before and constantly reminded him of it. One day, it is said, the Governor sent for the principal to consult her about the welfare of his family, and at the conclusion of the interview the pretty schoolmarm wore a fresh diamon ring. The marriage, as I have said, is to take place on the 25th of May, and the heroine of this little romance will hereafter spend her winters in Washington.—Washington Cor. Chicago Inter-Ocean.

All Sorts.

There are papers in Pennsylvania more than a hundred years old; and they show their age, too.

Shakespeare somewhere uses the term "a mad wag." He probably referred to the tail of a mad dog.

It is said that shingles may be made fire proof, but you cannot convince the small boy who has had experience that a shingle is not frequently red-hot.

You might as well try to squelch an Irishman's love of country as undertake to convince a young mother that her baby is not "forward for its age."

It is easy enough to give a strawberry festival. The press will always work up the festival free, and all the association has to do is to beg the strawberries.

Schwatka, on being interviewed, says: "No, you can never reach the Pole with a balloon, but you can reach the balloon with a pole, if it sails pretty low."

"Do you not see on every side evidences of the new art of making home attractive?" asks an exchange. We regret to say that we do no not. We board.

Jane Marsh Parker has written a book which she calls "The Midnight Cry" We have not read it, but we know all about it, and Jane has our sympathy. The cats bother us, too.

The largest authenticated snake ever seen was an anaconda which had swallowed a horse. If that anaconda would just try to swallow this story we fear he would go where the good snakes congregate.

"Everything seems to grow in this country except me," said the stranger sadly. "And who are you?" was asked with much sympathy. "Alas, cruel fate!" was the mournful reply, "I am a New York Monument Fund."

A fashionable young woman was seen on the street the other day with her hair combed. Much alarm was felt by her friends until it was ascertained that it was only a case of absent-mindedness. The young woman had forgotten to muss it.

"Mr Coldcash, I have come to ask for the hand of your daughter," "My daughter, sir?" "Yes, I can't live without her." "Well, sir, finish your sentence." "Finish my sentence?" "Yes, you were about to say you could not live without her income. Let us be frank, my dear sir."

They Got it All the First Time.—Prisoner—"If your Honor please, I would like the court to appoint a lawyer to defend me." Judge—"Why don't you employ your own lawyer?" Prisoner—"Please your Honor, I have no money." Judge, severely—"Ah, you hardened rascal, you've been here before."

A young law student was being examined for admittance to the Texas bar. Judge Stewart, the chairman of the examining committee, asked him: "If a man who had committed a murder employed you as his lawyer, what would you do toward getting him acquitted?" Student—"Excuse me, but how much money did you say the gentleman had?"

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

A Noble Life Ended.

The following is from the Altoona Times: "Now that death has come to relieve from earthly cares and trials the pure spirit of Mrs. Sallie Collins, the loved and loving wife of Mr. Thomas Collins, the well known railroad contractor, a notice of whose sudden demise near Baltimore, on last Tuesday afternoon was made at the time, there are hosts of devoted and admiring friends, believing as she believed in the communion of saints, who will find a sad consolation in praying for the repose of her soul. She was indeed a model woman, a devoted wife, and a true exemplar of all the ennobling virtues which adorn her sex. The Catholic Church did not have a more steadfast and exemplary member, the poor and distressed a more generous and considerate friend, nor the home circle a more attractive and hospitable centre" We understand that the funeral services and interment will be in Harrisburg.

—The children and grown people of this place are requested to assist, as they have always done heretofore, in the collection of flowers for Memorial day—this year on the 29th inst. The children are requested to gather all the flowers they can and bring them to the Post room early on that day. All who can do so are requested to arrange wreaths, crosses, bouquets and other suitable devices in flowers, and send them to the Post room. By having these symbols already prepared the work of the persons who meet at the rooms will be lightened. On the morning of the 29th the lady friends of the post are requested to assemble in the rooms to arrange the flowers which will be brought there loose by the children. Heretofore the people of Bellefonte have been very kind in this respect and their labors were appreciated. It is with the utmost confidence that the Post repeats its invitation this year.

—The largest shipment of iron ore ever made from this place was that of Wednesday, the 19th. The Messrs Valentine shipped away an amount equivalent to thirteen 20-ton car loads of ore. In addition to this, eight car loads of other valuable freight were sent away from Bellefonte the same day, among them being one car load of glass, several car loads of nails bound for Omaha, Neb., and several car loads of lime. Most of this freight, as will be noticed, was drawn from the inexhaustible resources of the earth in which this county is perhaps the richest on the globe. That day's shipment represents thousands of dollars of added wealth. Thursday's freightage of ore was also large, equivalent to eight 20-ton car loads.

—The completion of the Buffalo Run, Bellefonte and Bald Eagle Railroad depends largely on the disposition to be made of the Beech Creek railroad when the sale occurs in June next. If the Pennsylvania Railroad Company obtains control of the Beech Creek the work on the Buffalo Run will probably be abandoned. If it passes into the control of other parties the completion of the Buffalo Run road is assured and it will be continued to Beech Creek and a branch built from Nittany Hall with a terminus probably at Washington Furnace. The expectation seems to be that the Pennsylvania Company will not obtain control of the Beech Creek and on the strength of that expectation arrangements are now being made to raise the money to build the Buffalo Run railroad.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—There is a story told on Curtin by some of his colleagues which is good, if true, and amusing even if it isn't. He is very impetuous, and when he gets an idea into his head he doesn't stop until he puts it into practice, a habit which often leads to some ridiculous mistakes. When Cleveland was inaugurated the friends of Judge McCalmont, of Pennsylvania, put him forward for commissioner of customs, under the secretary of the treasury. Among others whose influence was solicited Curtin was included. When he heard that McCalmont wanted the place he jumped at the conclusion that it was General Alfred McCalmont, a brother of the judge, who was being pressed. Curtin's specialty is in Pennsylvanians who aided him as war governor, and he was enthusiastic in the support of the man whom he understood was the applicant. He came to Washington at once and

CALLED UPON CLEVELAND.

"This man must be appointed," said Curtin, "if Pennsylvania never gets another appointment under this administration. McCalmont was the bravest man that ever drew a sword in a battle, and we can't take 'no' for an answer." The president was impressed with Curtin's deep solicitude. He was more impressible then than he is now—and agreed to the appointment. When McCalmont came to Washington he hunted up Curtin to thank him for his interest in his behalf. "Why," said Curtin, "this is not General McCalmont."

"No," said the Judge, "I am his brother Robert. The General is dead, you know"

Curtin was thunderstruck, but he did not betray himself to the Judge. Afterwards he told the circumstances to a fellow congressman, but cautioned him never to say a word about it, as it was the most ridiculous of all the mistakes he had ever made in public life.

The Impending Battle.

CLEVELAND, May 22.—General Master Workman Powderly and Secretary Turner arrived in this city last evening to attend the conference of the General Assembly of the Knights of Labor, to be held here this week. After dinner they met Mr. John W. Hayes, of New Brunswick, N. J., a member of the Executive Board of the Order, and Mr. Thomas Kilgalon, of Butte City, Mon., representing Montana District No. 98, and also several prominent local members of the Order.

Last July, when the delegates were elected, there were only ninety-four district assemblies and at the meeting next week the assemblies since organized will not be entitled to representation. Ex-delegates may attend the meeting, but will be allowed no voice in the deliberations. The number of delegates who attended the general assembly last August was 160, and no more than that number are entitled to participate in the convention which begins on Tuesday.

"I can't tell, of course," said Mr Powderly, "what will be done at the session. The object is no secret, and more than that I am unable to say, because I don't know." Mr. Powderly was referred to a dispatch from Buffalo, wherein passing through that city on his way to Cleveland, he is reported to have stated that one of the chief subjects to be discussed at the meeting will be the extension of the Executive Board on the subject of strikes and boycotts. He expressed himself, according to the despatch, as strongly opposed to conflicts of any kind between capital and labor and hoped that measures would be taken to regulate such matters.

"I was not interviewed in Buffalo, said Mr Powderly, "or, if I was I did not know it."

CLEVELAND, May 23.—Officers of the General Assembly of the Knights of Labor were up early this morning and at work. The two tardy members of the Executive Board had not arrived, and no session was held. The headquarters work was several days behind, and Secretary Turner and his stenographer, who arrived from Philadelphia early in the day, were kept busy answering letters during the afternoon. The Grand Master Workman perfected a method of procedure and an order of business for the convention, and attended to other duties

Cleveland's Bride Elect.

FOLSOMDALE, May 24.—The will of Col. Folsom, grandfather of Miss Frankie Folsom, the President's bride elect, has not yet been found, although a casual search was made for it. The will made five years ago was seen by Banker Benedict, of Attica, with whom the Colonel had $10,000 and a large amount of securities on deposit. Mr. Benedict estimates the value of the estate at over $400,000. This would make Miss Folsom's share about $50,000; and although none of the Colonel's friends who could be seen to-day were willing to admit that he made a new will, it is thought from the many exhibitions of affection lately shown by him that she has been better cared for. A member of the family says she thinks Frankie will get at least $100,000.

The Colonel's pride in his granddaughter was enhanced by the fact that she was going to marry his old friend and the chum of his son Oscar. When she was at Folsomdale last summer, after the engagement occurred, Frankie was petted until she was tired. The engagement was known before July 1, of last year to Miss Emma Folsom, the probable bridesmaid. If the date for the wedding has been postponed on account of the Colonel's death it is believed it will not occur before July or August.

The Folsom family here say they believe that after Miss Folsom's return from Europe some entirely new plans will be made. They deny a report that she is in Brussels, and Dr. Martin, son-in-law of the Colonel, confirms the report that Miss Folsom is now on the ocean on the steamer City of Chicago, and that she will not know of her grandfather's death until she arrives in New York, where the particulars will be awaiting her. Nothing further will be done at the homestead until Mr. Benjamin Folsom's arrival.

Roasted to Death.

READING, PA., May 23.—John A. Tobias, senior member of the brick manufacturing firm of Tobias & Co., of Hamburg this county, was missed from the office yesterday morning. Suddenly his little son came rushing into the door, crying out that his papa was burning to death. Several clerks and employes hurried to one of the kilns and there saw a cloud of steam and smoke arising. Upon closer examination they found that Mr. Tobias' body was lying in the kiln on a pile of red hot brick. His clothing were ablaze and his body roasting. The men heroically and at the risk of their lives jumped in, dragging the unconscious man out. He was terribly burned, his back and lower limbs being one crisp. It appears that he had been overcome suddenly with sulphur and he fell headlong into the kiln, where he was cremated. He lingered in great agony until afternoon, when he died, aged 35. He leaves a family.

Mrs. Pendleton's Funeral.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The arrangements for the funeral of Mrs. George H. Pendleton, which will take place tomorrow morning from Zion church, at Madison avenue and Thirty-eight street, are about complete. No message was received from Minister Pendleton this morning. Miss Jennie Pendleton is still confined to her room by the effects of the shock she received at the time of the accident. She, however, is much improved and it is expected she will be able to attend her mother's funeral.

Thieving Officials.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 25.—D J. Canty, ex-city clerk and T. A. Canty, ex-city recorder, of East St. Louis, are now on trial at Belleville, Ill, charged with misappropriation of the city's funds and robbery of the safe in the treasurer's office. The crimes are supposed to have been committed about two years ago, and in the meantime, Thomas Duffy, a lieutenant of the police, has been tried and convicted of the latter offense and is now serving a sentence of five years in the penitentiary. During the proceedings in the court yesterday Duffy was placed on the witness stand and made a confession, which, if it shall remain unshaken by subsequent testimony, will undoubtedly convict the Canty brothers. Duffy testified substantially as follows:

In March, 1884 D J. Canty and witness were in Sneath's saloon, in East St. Louis, when Canty remarked that he had lost money at poker and he wished that some one would blow the market house to pieces. The next day he said, "If I and another man would blow the safe open, we could make a good haul." Canty promised to have everything put in fix for working the job. Duffy then got Clark and Egan, two of his subordinates, and so informed Canty. He told witness when things were ready, to let his brother Tim know. "At our last meeting, Canty told me to get into the vault, and we could find the safe door unlocked. The first time I saw Canty after the robbery, he told me to keep from getting drunk and talking, and if I got in any trouble he would back me up."

When witness was arrested he told Halloran that Bowman had offered $500 to him if he would implicate the Cantys, but did not take the contract; no one offered to secure his release or decrease his term of imprisonment in the penitentiary for testifying against any one; witness told Clark and Egan they had said there was no danger to be apprehended; when arrested Canty told him not to squeal, and he would come out all right. D J. Canty was put on the stand and denied each detail of the above confession, after which the court adjourned.

Damaged by Lightning.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, May 25.—The large brick mansion house at Sarah Furnace, the present residence of Mr. John G. McGraw, was struck by lightning during the passage of the electrical storm on Saturday night. The family of Mr. McGraw and his brother, Mr. Al. McGraw, were in the sitting room which adjoins the parlor and library, and suddenly a vivid flash of lightning and terrible clap of thunder startled and almost stunned them. They were so badly frightened as to be unable for a moment to realize what had happened. Mrs. McGraw said the sensation was to her like a flash of a pistol in her face. The electricity entered the parlor and tore things loose. The mica plates had been knocked out of the stove in the library, the ceiling badly damaged in several places and the elegant paper with which the walls were covered was in many places torn off and scattered about the room in tiny bits. It had the appearance of having been nibbled by mice. The building is covered against damage by lightning in the Continental insurance company of New York, and Liverpool, and London, and Globe of Liverpool.

A Woman's Death.

DETROIT, May 24.—A singular affair is reported from Greenville, Mich. James Martin, Saturday morning, served a notice of ejectment upon Abram Van Horn, a Crystal township farmer, claiming the title of Van Horn's farm. A few years Mrs. the farm was sold to Van Horn by ago Lydia Lyons, who said, when Van Horn expressed doubt about the clearness of the tit that sheel "hoped God would strike her dead if the title was not all right." When Van Horn was served with notice of ejectment yesterday morning he went to Greenville and consulted a lawyer. The latter advised him to call on Mrs Lyons about the matter, and toward noon Van Horn visited the woman at her home. She heard him through, and then dropped to the floor dead. Superstitious people think that Mrs. Lyons knew the title she sold was imperfect, and that God struck her dead in response to the prayer she uttered years ago, on the day the sale was effected. Medical science however, avers that she died of shock when brought face to face with her crime.

For Home Rule.

CHICAGO, May 25.—The meeting tonight of the friends of home rule in Ireland was one of the largest representative gatherings ever held in this city. Full ten thousand persons pressed themselves into Battery armory, while great crowds remained outside unable to gain entrance. Governor Oglesby was chosen presiding officer of the meeting with a list of vice presidents embracing judges on the bench, congressmen, ministers of all church denominations, and men prominent in all walks of life. Resolutions were adopted expressing sympathy and their continued support to the people of Ireland in their effort to secure a restoration of a native parliament taken from them by bribery and fraud, and congratulating Gladstone on the stand he had taken in behalf of Ireland.

Christening a King.

MADRID, May 23.—The infant son of the queen regent was christened yesterday. The ceremonies were witnessed by archbishops, bishops and priests, members of the royal family and government and municipal officials. The pope was represented by the papal nuncio. A great number of prominent Spaniards, diplomats and others were also present. The ceremonies were magnificent in detail.

PARIS, May 23.—Don Carlos has published a manifesto repudiating the infant son of Queen Christian as the rightful successor to the throne of Spain. He declares that he will never renounce his own rights to the throne.

Martin Irons Will Lecture.

KANSAS CITY, May 23.—Martin Irons was interviewed in this city yesterday. He denied having fled from Sedalia, and said he was not hiding, having registered his name. Irons says he opposed the inauguration of the Missouri Pacific strike; that his plan was to boycott the Texas and Pacific, but he was overruled and is now being made a scapegoat. He contemplates a lecture tour.

The Knights in Session.

CLEVELAND, May 25.—The general assembly of the Knights of Labor, which began its session to-day, is a close corporation. Everything is done in secret and all proceedings come to the newspapers through a committee of Knights appointed for that purpose. The first meeting opened at 3 o'clock and closed at 8 at night. At 4 o'clock the general assembly took a recess for the purpose of giving Mrs. Mary A Woodbridge, of Ravenna, Ohio, recording secretary of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, an opportunity to address them.

PITTSBURG, May 25.—President Weihl and Secretary Martin, of the Amalgamated association of iron and steel workers, returned from Cleveland this morning. Weihl said "all that was asked is that no expelled or suspended members of our order be admitted to membership of the Knights of Labor. We don't know what action will be taken, but believe all differences will be amicably arranged."

Positive Denial from Miss Folsom.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 25.—The Commercial Advertiser in an editorial to-day says: "Letters received in this city from Buffalo women now in Paris, and who have personally seen the young lady whose name has been mentioned as that of the intended wife of President Cleveland, report that the mortified girl positively declares that she is not going to marry Mr. Cleveland."

The Yankee Fishermen.

ST. JOHN, N. B., May 25.—There is nothing new in the fisheries discussion. There appears to be a growing feeling, not exactly among fishermen having bait to sell, but among other classes of the community, that Canada is doing wrong in not allowing American fishermen to purchase bait. There is not one out of a hundred of our fishermen who would not sell bait to Yankees if they got the chance.

Snow.

PITTSBURG, May 25.—Snow fell to-day at Kane, Pa., and at Clarendon, Pa., about forty miles north of Oil City. There was quite a snow storm. The indications are that there will be frost in that region to-night which will do much damage, as vegetation is greatly in advance of former seasons

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Joint Tribute of Respect.

At the last meetings of Capt. John O. Campbell Post, G. A. R., 272, and Pennsvalley Lodge, 276, I. O. of O. F., of Pine Grove Mills, Pa., a joint committee was appointed to adopt resolutions of respect. Be it

Resolved, Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, the Omnipotent Commander of all armies, to remove from among us and all earthly service, to answer the last roll call, Brother and Comrade Robert G. Brett;

Resolved, That in his final "muster out" our fraternities have lost a most worthy member and that we are again reminded that our last roll call will come sure and soon.

Resolved, That as a token of respect this room and the charters be draped in mourning and the members wear the usual mourning badge for a period of thirty days.

Resolved, That we tender to the sorrowing and aged mother and the bereaved widow and family our tenderest sympathies in this their sad affliction and sorrow.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on our minutes and a copy be forwarded to the family of our late brother, and a copy be sent to the county papers for publication.

Closing Exercises of the Colored School.

The school house on Jail hill was filled to its utmost capacity Tuesday evening. The room was far too small for the purpose—that of giving the closing exercises of the colored school. Mr. Milton Furey is the teacher, and his sister (Miss Lida Furey) very efficiently presided at the organ during the exercises.

The programme was varied with declamations, songs, recitations, etc.

Among those who took part who are especially deserving of mention were the Mills brothers and sisters, who sang several fine selections, Miss Helen singing the solo. The declamations were well prepared and Mr. Q. W. Mills received hearty applause during the evening for the successful manner in which he rendered several comic pieces. The Lime Kiln Club was one of the most laughable features of the exercises and was thoroughly enjoyed. The younger children attending the school deserve much praise for the skillful manner in which they delivered their different parts. The recitations by Helen Mills, Rosa Potter, Carrie Mills, Melissa Garner, Lenie Potter and Nettie Wilson elicited applause which was well deserved.

The entertainment was a complete success, and none appreciates the good work performed by the teacher to a greater extent than do the school directors, who testified to their hearty endorsement by attending and thoroughly enjoying the evening's exercises.

A Monster Eagle.

A dispatch from Olean, N. Y., May 24, says: H. C. Blakeslee's farm is near this city. A number of calves have been running about in a piece of woods on the farm for a week or so past. One day last week E. M. Johnson, a hired man on the farm, heard a great bleating by one of the calves. Hurrying to the woods from which the noise came, he discovered that an enormous eagle had swooped down on the calf and was trying to carry it away. The size of the calf made this an impossible task, but the eagle persisted gamely in its efforts, in spite of the presence of the hired man. The latter ran back to the house and got a shotgun, and, returning, fired a charge into the eagle, which was still tearing at the calf with its talons and beak. The shot broke one of the eagle's wings, and the bird relinquished its hold on the calf and turned on Johnson. The cries of the calf, the report of the gun, and the shouts of the hired man brought others to the spot, and the great bird was captured alive after a desperate struggle. It was imprisoned in an outbuilding. This eagle is one of the largest specimens ever captured, as it measures over nine and a half feet from tip to tip of its wings.

Re-apportionment.

The report of the sub committee of the Republican State Central committee, was submitted at the meeting held in Altoona on Tuesday evening. An outline of the report, adopted yesterday, is as follows:

1. Abolish senatorial delegates to state convention.

2. Apportion the representation in the state convention by legislative districts, giving each district one delegate in the convention, one delegate for each two thousand republican votes, or a majority fraction of that figure. Provided that no district is to have less than two delegates.

3. The basis of representation is to be the official vote cast for the last republican candidate.

4. All nominations for candidates in districts composed of more than one county, whether judicial, senatorial or congressional, to be made by conventions, to be composed of delegates apportioned upon the Republican vote of the several counties in said district, based on the last presidential vote, in the ratio of not less than one delegate for each five hundred voters; said delegates to be elected by the single district plan. The Republican county committee of each county is authorized to apportion its county into single districts containing, as near as possible, five hundred voters each.

—C. M. Snyder, of Henrietta, Blair county, has invented a car coupler which, it is said, will render the operation much less dangerous than formerly. The invention consists of a lever fork a bearing for it, a double-headed bolt for fastening the bearing to the car, and a hook on which to place the lever-fork when out of use. In operating the machine the brakeman stands at the side of the car entirely out of danger. Then with the lever-fork he can move the link up and down, right and left, and hold it stationary at any desired point. In short, the machine will handle the link with as much ease and certainty as the hand, and forever does away with the business of crushing hands and fingers, the result of the present method of coupling. The machine is very simple in construction, easily operated, durable, and withal cheap. The cost of putting it on both ends of a car, material and all included, would not exceed five dollars.

A Sad Sight.

This (Tuesday) forenoon a party, consisting of a man and wife, a little girl about ten years of age, and a child of about four years, passed through the streets on their way to Bellefonte. The man, who was blind, was harnessed to a small, two-wheeled cart, and his little girl led him. The woman and the little child kept on the sidewalk. The party had come from Carlisle, having been two weeks on the road. They presented a most pitiable appearance as they passed through the muddy streets.—Lock Haven Express.

—Just to show how different are the prevailing ideas of the weather and the kind of weather required we will quote some remarks heard during the past few days. On Sunday we heard a man say that the cool, wet weather had seriously affected the corn. On Monday we heard a gentleman complain that the weather was too dry and that his garden greatly needed rain. Then on Tuesday a strawberry dealer was asked how he could account for the high price and rather tart taste of strawberries this season. "Oh," he replied, "that is owing to the unusual quantity of rain."

—It is with genuine sorrow that we hear of the exceedingly feeble health of Mr. Ed. Nolan, proprietor of the Mountain House, Snow Shoe, and who is widely known as a railroad man, having been engaged on the railroad for many years. This morning he was reported to be sinking rapidly and fears are entertained that he will not survive his present prostration.

—It seems to us that the employers of labor in this country who have sown the wind are now experiencing the inevitable result—reaping the whirlwind. It is the imported foreign workmen who are stirring up strikes and flaunting the red flag. These men were imported to take the place of Americans and our beloved country is now paying dear for it.

—George Fullmer, of Sunbury, aged 55, was accidentally killed in his yard Sunday noon. The heavy crosspiece of a swing in which he was sitting reading a book fell upon him, crushing in his skull. He has for many years been watchman and runner for the First National bank, and was widely known and highly regarded.

SPECIAL MENTION.

—The President has appointed the following named gentlemen members of the Board of Visitors to West Point for the present year: Prof. W. G. Sumner, of Yale College, Conn; Hon. Kemp P. Battle, LL. D, President of the University of North Carolina; Mr. Wilson S. Bissell, of New York; Gen. William H. Blair of Penn.; Gen. George B Crosby, Adjutant General of California; Gen. Francis T. Nicholls, of Louisiana, and Col. Thomas C. McCorvey, of Alabama.

Bad Breath arises from the stomach, and can be easily corrected if you take Simmons Liver Regulator. It is particularly adopted to the stomach, correcting acidity, destroying foul gases and allaying inflammation. Take, after eating, a half-table-spoonful, it assimilates with the food and ensures perfect digestion, without which that repulsive disorder, bad breath, must ensue. The Regulator removes billiousness, cures dyspepsia, constipation and sick headache, is purely vegetable and harmless.

—We are pleased to learn that Mr. John A. Daley, of Curtin township, came home from Kansas Saturday. He talks quite enthusiastic of the Empire State of the West and is also slightly "taken" with some of the other States. Perhaps, however, he has not contracted the western fever to such an extent as to induce him to move there permanently.

DO YOU DISLIKE BITTER MEDICINES? And have you found out that gelatine-coated quinine pills do not dissolve in the stomach and have no effect upon the system whatever? If so purchase a bottle of QUINEPTUM, and take your quinine in powder. QUINEPTUS changes the most nauseous dose into a palatable and even delicious draught.

—A tennis tournament will be played next Saturday morning (Memorial day) between a team of four from Bellefonte and an equal number from State College. The tournament will be played at the tennis court on East Linn street in this place. The Bellefonte team consists of Scott Harris, Will Furst, Harry Keller and James Hughes.

THE CLERGY, MEDICAL FACULTY AND PEOPLE all endorse Burdock Blood Bitters as the best system renovating, blood purifying tonic in the world. Send for testimonials.

—Usually the Steam Heating Company closes off the warmth from the pipes about the 25th or 28th of May. It has not been done yet, this year, but if this warm weather continues the works will close for the season early next week.

All our New Woolens for the Spring and Summer season—1886—just received. Leave your order now. MONTGOMERY & Co., Tailors.

—Delegates from Schuylkill county to the Republican State Convention will support Hon. Samuel A. Losch, of that county, for the nomination as Secretary of Internal Affairs

"I have no appetite," complains many a sufferer. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives an appetite, and enables the stomach to perform its duty.

—The finding of a four leaf clover is said to be a sign of good luck.

The red flag must go. Every husband in the land whose wife visits an auction sale will arm himself to pull down the hated rag.

A New York editor says that General Wolseley ought to be "sat upon as a dangerous firebrand." Who wants to sit upon a firebrand?

A chip on a man's shoulder is like the flag of a nation hoisted at a masthead. It could be spared as a matter of fact, but it must be defended.

The man who invested ten dollars in flower seed five weeks ago thinks all this talk about the flowers that bloom in the spring very much uncalled for.

The fish have quieted down a little in the river, and no longer crowd one another out on the bank and frighten the children. Still good fishing, however.

Queer, isn't it, how the amateur fisherman will lose a day's pay by staying away from his work, blister his hands digging bait, get up at four o'clock in the morning, walk five miles to the fishing ground and fish until dark at night, crawling on his hands and knees up to the brook and under the brush, doing work that $25 wouldn't induce him to do at any time else—all for seven little trout with a total weight of nineteen ounces.

M. DE LESSEPS' financial schemes have struck an unexpected snag in the report of M. Rousseau, the delegate appointed by the Government to inspect the work on the Panama canal. He declares the company's estimates untrue as to the amount of work done and untrustworthy as regards the cost of completing the canal. De Lesseps has been called on for explanations, which he will make with great volubility.

GEN. ROSECRANS was confirmed Register of the Treasury out of mercy. Senator Morrill, on whose motion his confirmation was suspended, withdrew it. In doing so, he said that although the General's explanation of the charge of fraud made the case worse than it was before, he was willing to allow the water of oblivion to wash everything out and the confirmation take place. It was a work of mercy.

SPEAKER CARLISLE is now going through an experience at home not altogether unlike that of his chief rival in Congress, Samuel J. Randall. His Kentucky constituents do not seem to be by any means unanimous in supporting his ambition for re-election next autumn, and one of the Bourbon organs at Covington is loud in its charges of "falsehood, deceit, party treason and immorality."

A Buffalo paper advocates the boycotting of those girls who have pet names or names with "ie" termination. Well, they do get boy-caught quite frequently, as a glance at the list of marriage licenses will show.

HOW GROVER'S ENGAGEMENT GOT OUT.

One day
A newspaper man was heard to say,
"There's a Washington wedding not faraway."
And then
When
They figured down all the marrying men,
And sifted them over and tried again,
And could not find
A bachelor man that way inclined,
Suddenly each despondent
Resident
Newspaper correspondent
Shouted: "The President!"
Then the brood
Of reporters
Eagerly issued
From their quarters,
The Republican courtiers.
In twenty-four hours, by some means or other
They published a column about the girl's mother,
And two or three columns they got from her brother.
Some perdonable vaunts
From two of her aunts;
And no end Of buzzins
From dozens
Of cousins;
Her teacher,
Her preacher,
Her sister at home,
Her schoolmate, sweet creature,
Her uncle in Rome;
Her cousin Leander,
Her brother in-law,
Her uncle Lysander,
Her great grandpapa,
All manner of people she never thought well of
And hundreds of others she never heard tell of,
Until all this great nation just knew all about it,
Save her and the President—they seemed to doubt it.
—Brooklyn Eagle.

TRUTH.

O holy and eternal Truth! Thou art
An emanation of the Eternal Mind,
A glorious attribute, a noble part
Of uncreated being. Who could find,
By diligent searching—who can find out thee,
The Incomprehensible, the Deity?

The human mind is a reflection caught
From thee, a trembling shadow of thy ray.
Thy glory beams around us, but the thought
That heavenward wings its daring flight away.
Returns to where its flight was first begun,
Blinded and dark beneath the noonday sun.

The soul of man, though sighing after thee,
Hath never known thee, saving as it knows
The stars of heaven, whose glorious light we see,
The sun, whose radiance dazzles as it glows—
Something that is beyond us, and above
The reach of human power, though not of human love.

Vainly philosophy may strive to teach
The secret of thy being. Its faint ray
Misguides our steps. Beyond the utmost reach
Of its untiring wing the eternal day
Of truth is shining on the longing eye,
Distant, unchanged, changeless, pure and high.

And yet thou hast not left thyself without
A revelation. All we feel and see
Within us and around forbids to doubt,
Yet speaks so darkly and mysteriously
Of what we are and shall be evermore,
We doubt and yet believe, and tremble and adore.
—Harper's Magazine.

THE LOST BROOK.

A little silver thread which runs
So meekly that its flowing
Seems but a line of light upon
The landscape, faintly showing.

Is this my modest slender brook,
Which hugs the roots of daisies
And shyly seeks a sheltered nook
To hide itself from praises?

Beneath the willows, where it glides
Until I lose its bearing,
To catch it by the rocky sides
From which with reckless daring,

It widens out, where stand the cows
That drink their fill and loiter
Beneath the maples, where they browse
Beside the cooling water?

And yonder where the hills are steep
It leaves the bristling rushes,
And narrows for its creepy leap
Toward the crimson bushes.

Of sumach, standing far beyond
The rocks that hide its turning
To enter swift the lily-pond,
Which soon absorbs its yearning.

Lost, silver brook! oh, tender youth!
Why seek the depth of pleasure!
The simple line of living truth
Has more of joyful measure.

Than all the grand outlying seas
To which you haste; for never
In whirl and bustle was there peace,
Nor will there be forever.

The earth is filled with cries for youth;
To these answers all replying,
His old kind heart laments the truth,
Still, "youth which flows is dying."

A brook absorbed is youth grown old:
Life grants no kind concession,
One sinks in ocean deep and cold;
And one in man's possession.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Works through the blood, regulating, toning and invigorating all the functions of the body.

Ringworm Humor and Salt-Rheum.

RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1878.

C. I. Hood & Co.: Gentlemen— * * * * I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so, also, my head and face. I have had any number of doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.

I am gratefully yours,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.

Biliousness, Sick Headache.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gents—Please send me by express two bottles HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.

Yours truly,
HOMER B. NASH.

BUSINESS AGAIN.

Our terms are Cash, and positively no over thirty days to responsible parties.

Any farmer that is worthy of credit can borrow money at 6 per cent. and then pay the merchant cash, and save at least 20 per cent., and then if you buy goods at a cash store you don't pay for another man's credit. We have proven beyond question that you can save money by paying cash. A credit store can talk about selling their CASH CUSTOMERS cheap, but they can't do it, and a person with ordinary intelligence knows they can't, and any one that don't know why they can't, we can enlighten them upon the subject. A Series of Fatal Fires.

AKRON, O., May 19. The little home of Mrs. Mary Mooney, a widow, situated about three miles north of Akron, burned to the ground shortly before midnight, and four of Mrs. Mooney's children, the oldest 12 and the youngest 4 years old, perished in the flames. Mrs. Mooney awoke in the night to find herself choking with smoke, and, snatching up her baby of two years, told the other little ones, who were almost stifled, to follow her. Mrs Mooney sprang out of the window with the babe in her arms and landed almost unhurt, the baby also receiving but slight injuries.

Lawrence Mooney, aged 60, brother in-law of Mrs. Mooney, was awakened by the children's outcry, and rushed out of the house only to be told by the frantic mother that her four little ones were still in the burning building. Both mother and uncle rushed into the flames time after time, but were beaten back, Mr. Mooney at length falling exhausted and terribly blistered, while the flesh on his hands hung in shreds.

It took but a few moments longer for the crackling flames to consume the little building, and this morning charred bits of flesh and larger bones of the bodies of the four little ones were found in the ruins. Lawrence Mooney's injuries may prove fatal, and Mrs Mooney and her two grown daughters, living in this city, are wild with grief. The $900 insurance and the little patch of ground is all that is left to the stricken mother. The fire caught from an overheated stove.

ANOTHER HORRIBLE BURNING.

JERSEY CITY, May 19.—The Franks chemical factory, at Hoboken, was burned to-day and three men, Edward Ferry, John Hoffman and Joseph Heiszer, employed on the third floor, were so badly burned that their recovery is doubtful. Heiszer fell from the third story window and was badly mangled. The loss is estimated at $6,000.

VICTIMS OF A FIRE IN AN OPERA HOUSE.

COLUMBUS, O., May 19.—Harry Evans and Perkey Knot have died from injuries received at a fire in the Opera House, at Westerfield, Monday night. Willie Trazie, Vernie Boardman, Harry Haynes and Ada Markley will probably not recover.

TWO MORE CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH.

CAMBRIDGE, Md., May 19.—The house of John Baltimore, colored, in Linkwood district, was burned last night, and his two children, aged 3 and 8 years, were consumed with the building.

Jaehne's Sentence.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Judge Barrett sentenced Alderman Jaehne to nine years and ten months in state prison. He said the prisoner has been convicted after a fair trial; that he had every advantage that a defendant could have, and able counsel. He had the services of two of the most eminent members of the bar, one a veteran of the criminal bar, noted for his power and force, and another gentleman of equal ability whose services were ever ready at the command of the poor unfortunate and oppressed. The case was a sad one. It was a humiliating spectacle that a man who was selected to public office in this city should have so heinously betrayed his trust as the prisoner had. It was humiliating to the people of the city, state and country that such a spectacle should be presented in a free government as a person betraying his trust as the prisoner had done. It was sad to see a man with the prisoner's advantage in the position in which he now was.

In conclusion Judge Barrett said: "It only remains for me to pass sentence. In your case the maximum penalty of the law will not be imposed. Under a recent statute, wherever the maximum penalty is abridged the prisoner has the advantage—that in addition to his commutation for good behavior, he leave the state prison between the months of March and May. Appeals have been made to me to be merciful in your case. I am not unmindful of the sufferings of your family. No undue severity will be exercised toward you. I have, therefore, instructed the sheriff not to remove you immediately to the state prison. You will be conveyed to the city prison, where you will have an opportunity to consult with your counsel in regard to the pending appeal in your case."

According to the remission made for good conduct he will actually have to serve six years, four months and eleven days.

Argument for a stay of execution was listened to by Judge Dannels at 3 o'clock. He denied the motion and Jaehne will be taken to Sing Sing tomorrow.

The Miner's Strike.

Special to the Altoona Tribune.

OSCEOLA, Pa. May 20.—In view of the action of the George's Creek miners is going to work at the old price, the men here have been more active during the past three days than at any time since the strike began. The Houtzdale, Philipsburg and Osceola local boards met in the last named place last night, and after a prolonged meeting resolved to send a committee to Cumberland to ascertain the true situation, this committee to report to a convention to be held at Tyrone on Saturday. The Tyrone convention will be made up of delegates from Cumberland, Meyersdale, Irwin, Snow Shoe, DuBois, Elk Garden, Broad Top, and all the districts in the Clearfield region. These boards also request the miners of the region to remain firm, until the meeting of the Tyrone convention.

At Houtzdale an open meeting was held at 10 p. m. last night, when a resolution was unanimously adopted to stand out for the ten cents advance regardless of what Cumberland may have done or might do. The opinion is generally entertained here that resumption will follow in this region at the old price within twenty-four hours after it is known positively what Cumberland has done, if the assurance was given the men by the operator that they would not be blacklisted, that they should have just weight, and they should have the privilege of buying their goods where they pleased, and not where petty bosses compelled them to buy under penalty of discharge.

Will be Cadets.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 20.—Among those who have successfully stood the examination for the cadetship at the Naval academy are: F. H. Kochersberger and T. T. O'Kell, of Pennsylvania.

Our Little War Speck.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Secretary of State Bayard in reply to his telegram to the consul general, at Digby, Nova Scotia, has received from him to day the following: Captain Terris, of the schooner Jennie and Julian, fourteen tons, carrying five men fitted for fishing, was registered at Eastport. Had no permit to touch and trade. Applied to collector here on the 8th instant to enter vessel as trader. Collector refused, but offered to enter as fisherman, which offer the captain declined. The captain stated to the collector that he wished to purchase herring to take home to be smoked.

PORTLAND, Me., May 21.—There is a rumor that the Ella Maud, one of the vessels owned by Lewis Chase & Whitten, has been seized for shipping two men in one of the colonial ports. The firm have heard nothing from the captain. They say that if he shipped men he went beyond his instructions. If the Ella Maud has been seized Whitten will go down and manage the case himself. The vessels of this firm have been ordered to take no bait from any provincial port.

BOSTON, May 21.—The Acadian Recorde, a Nova Scotian newspaper, says: "The fault is on our own side for all these difficulties. The present Tory government takes no pains to evoke generous sentiments in the breasts of American public men. They have snarled and endeavored to pursue a policy of isolation and they created commercial barriers. This line of policy persistently pursued, has reacted on the American people, and as they can get on very well without us, they are preparing to meet us with a like spirit, and most alarming consequences now stare us in the face. Let us never forget that the remaining half of the great American continent is not peopled by Turks or barbarians, but by men who belong to our great race and speak our language. Nothing divides but an imaginary line. Hundreds of thousands of our sons are settled there, and we are bound up in the way of trade as with no other section of the wide world."

Willing to Concede to the Miners.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., May 21.—It is believed here that the strike of the soft coal miners in the Clearfield district will be over in a few days and that all or nearly all the men will return to work at the old rates. The resumption in the Cumberland district at forty cents a ton, which was the price paid to all soft coal miners in this section of country and their failure to get an advance of ten cents, seems to have disheartened the men in the whole Clearfield region and a conference between the miners and operators is announced to be held at Tyrone to-morrow. The miners it is thought will go to work at the old rates if they are ensured that none of the strikers will be blacklisted. They will also demand just weight and request the abolishing of the company stores. Representatives of Berwind, White & Co., and Fisher, Miller & Co., were seen to-day. They assert their willingness to resume on the conditions named by the miners and will attend the conference with the hope of effecting a settlement at once.

A Good Man Gone.

YONKERS, N. Y., May 21.—Dr. Dio Lewis, author and reformer, died at his home here this morning at 8 o'clock, after an illness of two or three days from erysipelas. He was thrown from his horse several weeks ago, and suffered a contusion wound below the left knee. He had recovered sufficiently on Wednesday of last week to come to New York on business. On his return he was carried past Yonkers station to Hastings, four miles above this place, and to save a long delay he walked home. His wound began to swell and pain him, and his physician said that erysipelas had set in. He steadily sank until this morning, when death came to his relief.

A $22,000 Fire.

WASHINGTON, Mo., May 20.—Early yesterday morning the store of William G. Ruge, in North Washington, was discovered to be on fire, and before assistance could arrive the flames had made such progress as to make it impossible to save either the building or any part of the stock of goods. There is no doubt that the store was first robbed and then set on fire. A box of jewelry, dropped by the burglars in their flight, was found near the building after the fire. The stock was valued at $12,000; the building at $10,000; insurance, $8,000.

Can Whip the Orangemen.

DUBLIN, May 20.—The United Ireland declares that there are nationalists sufficient in any town of Ulster to whip the rag-tag and bobtail Orangemen into good behavior, provided the police stand aside.

The President Approves.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The president has approved the bill for the study of the nature of alcoholic drinks and narcotics and their effects in public schools of the District of Columbia, the territories, etc.

Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Fourth-class postmasters were to-day appointed in Pennsylvania: Frederick Shoff, Hegarty's Cross Roads; James R. Fleming, Menno; John L. Russle, Milroy; Chas. Clemens, Reedsville.

Y. m13

Through by daylight—the eight-hour man.

There Must be an Open Road between the food we eat and the substance of which our bodies are composed. If the road is clogged or closed we sicken, faint and die. This road is made up of the organs of digestion or assimilation. Of these the stomach and liver are chief. Most people have had more or less experience of the horrors of constipation. Prevent it and all its fearful sequences by using Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." It is the first step that costs.

Many Persons have catarrh in its first stages who suppose themselves to be troubled with nothing more serious than a severe and stubborn cold in the head. Ely's Cream Balm gives instant relief from colds in the head, and a thorough treatment will cure catarrh. For sale by every druggist in the land.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

—The classis of the Reformed church is in session in Aaronsburg.

—Thursday was the 11th anniversary of he Osceola fire, which occurred Thursday, May 20, 1875.

—Haines township, it is said, has more money on interest than any other township in the county.

—The Centre Hall and Spring Mills base ball nines will play a game at the latter place on Memorial day.

—The Centre Hall Reporter, last week had two marriage notices under the head usually put above the death notices.

—Cows, calves and other live stock frequently become victims of the swift moving trains on the Lemont railroad.

—Base ball game on Thursday between Harry Ryan's nine and George Meek's nine (the Browns) resulted in 16 to 12 in favor of the latter.

—Charley, the youngest son of Jacob Alter, of Millheim, broke his left arm near the elbow joint by falling down stairs. The accident occurred on Saturday, the 15th.

—One more of the employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at the station here has been made very happy. It's a bouncing boy and we expect its name will be William Thomas.

—Past Department Commander Curtin seems to take as much interest in the Grand Army now as he did when the highest official in the State. He is constantly active in furthering the progress of the order.

—Mr. William Mingle, of the Penns Valley Banking Company, has been appointed Prothonotary by Governor Pattison. This is a surprise, as one of the other applicants for the position was considered to be more certain of securing it.

—The members of Gregg Post, G. A. R., are requested to meet at the Post room at 9 o'clock next Sunday morning, to be in readiness to proceed to the Methodist church, where a memorial sermon will be delivered by Rev. Dr. D. S. Monroe.

—Mr. Linn Mullen says that in a year or so he will travel around in a tally-ho coach just like Banker B. K. Jameson. The first step toward that goal will be when he becomes a stage driver. Banker Jameson was a stage driver when young, you know.

—A game of base ball played on Wednesday afternoon between Harry Ryan's nine and that of Lewis Furey resulted in a score of 8 to 3 in favor of the former. Harry Ryan thinks he can at least afford to challenge the New York League with some show of success.

—The Centre Hall Reporter, after saying that the Spring Mills creamery is to be operated by a 15-horse power engine and that the output of butter will be 700 lbs daily, remarks that the creamery thinks of buying all the cream from 6 to 10 miles. That will indeed be a remarkable creamery. If it thinks it must be alive and have a mind.

—The base ball prophesy of the DAILY NEWS made on Wednesday was fulfilled to the letter. On Thursday evening the record of the Williamsport and Altoona nines was 5 won, 2 lost for each club, Williamsport having won both games in that city, the one on Thursday by a score of 9 to 4. Success depends largely on where these nines play.

—Rev. Crittenden, of Bellefonte, was in town on Tuesday and met with splendid success in disposing of the book entitled, "The Best Things," of which he is the author. When he called at this office he had not a single copy left. He expects to return to this place in a few weeks when he will have a new supply of books.—Millheim Journal.

—The Philipsburg correspondent of the Keystone Gazette says: "Miss Maggie Jackson, of Osceola, paid our town a visit last week. She has removed to Bellefonte, where she will make her home." This is a mistake. Miss Jackson is now in Ansonville, Clearfield county. She may be in Bellefonte during the Summer, but that is uncertain.

—Mr. William Lyon received a telegram Saturday announcing the death of Rev. Mr. Jack at Hazelton, on Friday morning at 3 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Jack's death closes the earthly life a man of great ability and sterling worth. Many admired him for his talents, eloquence and usefulness. A few years ago he delivered in this place one of the finest lectures ever heard by our people. The funeral which occurred on Monday at 2 o'clock was a very large one.

—A young man living in this place and connected with one of the leading hardware firms as clerk took his first trip to Philadelphia one day last week, to view the attractions of that handsome city. Before starting, it is said, he took out an accident policy to the amount of $5,000. Not being blessed with a wife or other incumbrances upon whom to bestow worldly wealth, he divided the amount as a legacy in this way: $500 to the church, $500 for charity's sake, $2,500 for the erection of a monument to his own memory, and $1,500 to a lady relative. But there were no upheavals of Mother Earth and the mighty engine kept on the track, and the young man is, we are pleased to record, with us once again.

Spring Mills News Summarized in Attractive Style.

The enterprising agents, Messrs. Snyder and Krumrine, are doing a good business among our farmers in supplying them with the latest and best devices for making much easier the labor of the tiller of the soil.

Mr. Fred Gray, conductor on the construction train, had the misfortune to have his arm caught between the bumpers on the cars. Fred has a good brawny arm, but not tough enough for this kind of usage. He was brought home shortly after the accident and the family physician called, who speedily dressed the injured member. At present he is doing as well as he can be expected. Though he carries his arm in a sling, he can again be found at his post on the train.

Some of our business men were injuriously criticized by a correspondent from this place in a late issue of the Keystone Gazette. We are not positive, but have good reason to believe that the writer of the article referred to and the would be business man who at present holds forth in the little half story high room above the hardware store are one and the same person. In the same issue of that paper is an article which reads, "It now remains for the business men of Spring Mills to encourage this new enterprise and not let it go somewhere else." Oh, yes, we think it should have some encouragement, especially from the business men. We also think he should have the encouragment soon—say before he gets them to the "South Pacific Islands." As to our business men having "brains," if they did not have more than the Gazette correspondent from this place they might pack their heads in ice and their feet in moss and have some one label them for Danville or some other place that has an institution for demented persons.

Miss Moyer, the lady who is at present giving instruction in the art of piano and organ music at this place, is a good musician. The way she handles the ivory of Mr. Grenoble's piano shows that she is master of her chosen profession.

Dr. Allison, who recently located in our town, is fast gaining the good will of our people. This fact is clearly shown by the demand for his services. We have a healthy town, yet we do not want to be without the presence of a good physician. Dr. A. came with more than two years active experience and has settled down with the determination of staying.

The improvement spirit caught Mr. Henry Krumrine. The vacant plot of ground adjoining the tan yard has been surrounded with a neat picket fence. Joe Alters, the "boss" mechanic, did the job and did it well.

Daniel Kenelly is the sawyer in Mr. Runk's mill. "Dan" keeps the mill in the best of order and it can be heard late and early dividing the products of the forest to the advantage of the workmen.

The "Patterson" family of Unionville, this county, will shortly move into Dr. Stam's house, which has been vacant since the first of April. Glad to have them locate here.

The members of the orchestra were seen wending their way to the residence of P. S. Dale one evening last week. They report a fine time.

Rev. Heckman, of Centre Hall, and the venerable James Grove, were trout fishing a few days ago. The latter is an old hand with the "fly" and rod and always brings home a fine string of the speckled beauties.

A party of serenaders (calithumpians) made it lively for one of the clerks in this place recently. Such things should be numbered with the events of the past. They are a disgrace, especially when parties who pretended to be ladies will participate in them, as was done on this occasion.

Mrs. Annie Keller, of Centre Hall, was here visiting friends over Sunday.

SPING MILLS, PA., May 19, 1886.

—Since writing the account of the total destruction by a stroke of lightning of Mr. Joseph Kline's barn, near Graysville, Huntingdon county, on the 10th instant, a very curious incident in connection with it has come to our knowledge, which, if a fact—and we have no reason to doubt it—certainly indicates an interposition of special providence in behalf of certain members of the family. Several of the older members of the family were in the barn about that time, engaged in milking. A little girl in the house who had never before evinced any fear of thunder, suddenly because unaccountably frightened and screamed loudly. The persons in the barn, fearing the child might be hurt by the violence of her fright, went to comfort her. Almost as soon as they had emerged from the barn the destructive stroke fell, filling the building with electricity and instantly killing the live stock therein Of course, had the persons referred to been in the barn they too would have been killed.

—The exercises incident to the closing of the schools deserve more than a passing reference, but as we were not present our notice is brief. There were a variety of pleasing recitations in which a half-dozen or more of the young folks distinguished themselves. Among those who did very well were Willie Buck, Johnnie Larimer and Katie Furey.

The Tally-ho Coach Arrives.

On Wednesday night, the 19, about 8.45 o'clock, a party of five gentlemen arrived on the tally-ho coach from Philadelphia. The names of the gentlemen are Col. B. K. Jamison, and his son W. S. Jamison, Col. James K. Schofield, James F. Breuil, Philadelphia, and J. Heron Crosman, of New York. Two colored grooms sat on the rear seat. The party arrived over the Lewistown pike, their progress from Aaronsburg being quite slow, because of the breaking of something connected with the coach. Their arrival in town was duly announced by the loud blowing of bugles. Col. Jamison handled the reins. It is fortunate that he is a skillful driver as the route taken was through Bishop street, where the sewer trenches are open, and an unsteady hand might have precipitated the coach into the trench. They took quarters at the Brockerhoff House and at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon departed for Snow Shoe, from where they will return to Philadelphia by way of Williamsport.

The tally-ho coach, "Rambler," was at Mr. McQuistion's wagon shop Thursday, undergoing repairs. It is a $3,000 affair, very elegant and complete. There are seats inside for four and the same number of seats on top of the coach for use in fine weather. The grooms occupy a high seat behind. The inside is fitted up as completely as a handsome dwelling with every conceivable convenience. Step ladders are attached for ladies to use in climbing to the top of the coach.

Strong lights on every side make light enough on the darkest night, while a time piece in front reflects back the time of day. It is too complete for minute description.

Investigation Called For.

MR. EDITOR: When licenses were granted during the last term of court, those who were given license were placed under very stringent rules. Every man who has a license is a very respectable citizen and surely should obey these rules, and yet it looks as if at least one of these rules—that of selling intoxicants to men of intemperate habits—is being broken almost daily. Permit me to call the attention of the public to two instances. There is an industrious young man in Bellefonte whose only fault, so far as I know, is that he gets drunk about once a month. He is intemperate in the use of intoxicating liquor. On Tuesday morning, May 18, he was sober and at work. In the afternoon of that day he was disgracefully drunk and staggered through the streets. On Wednesday, May 19, a farmer visited town. This man's only fault, so far as I know, is that he imbibes too freely when he visits Bellefonte. His habits in this respect, are intemperate. On the day mentioned he became so drunk that friends had to take him home.

I do not say that the licensed venders in Bellefonte furnished liquor to these men But it looks like it. If they didn't, to relieve them of suspicion, they should ferret out the place and manner in which these men procured the intoxicants.

It also seems to us that the Bellefonte Law and Order League might with profit interest themselves in these investigations.

INQUIRER.

A Temperance Triumph.

The temperance workers in Bellefonte have received the following:

220 SECOND ST., N. E., WASHINGTON, D. C.
May 17, 1886.

Dear friends and co-workers: The final vote for the National Temperance Educational Bill, unamended, was cast today in the lower house of the Congress of the United States, 203 votes for to 8 against, many of our opponents not voting. Thus to the campaign of five long weary months, with its ever changing emergencies demanding as frequent change of tactics, is vouchsafed this gracious victory.

We shall hold in Washington, on Sunday, May 23d, at 3 p. m., a jubilee meeting. Will you join us in a temperance praise meeting in your vicinity thanking God who has thus signally blessed our and your efforts; for every person who has written a letter, signed or circulated a petition for this bill has been a part of the instrumentality used of God to bring this great blessing to our land. On Monday, May 24th, I shall return home to Hyde Park, Mass., where please address me.

Gratefully and sincerely yours,

MARY H. HUNT,
Nat'l Sup't. of Scientific Instruction, W. C. T. U.

Destruction of the "Curtin House" at Milesburg by Fire.

On Thursday night about 10.30 o'clock smoke was noticed issuing from the wall on the inside of what is known as the Curtin House, at Milesburg. This was at one time a hotel and is now used as a residence. The fire did not seem to be progressing very fast and the occupants of the house battled the flames, believing they could subdue them. It however burned up towards the roof and a general alarm was given.

The fire was fought very bravely, but it burned stubbornly. The building is a plank frame structure, very solid, and when the fire once obtained the advantage of those who were fighting it nothing could be done but to remove the furniture which it contained.

Two families occupied the building—those of Mr. A M Rishel and Albert D. Rager. All their furniture was saved in good condition. A hall on the second floor was used by the Grangers and the valuable furniture used by them was also saved A few articles of furniture in the garret belonging to George Taylor, who at one time occupied the house, were destroyed.

The building was the property of the Patrons of Husbandry and was quite valuable, being worth at least $3,000 or $4,000. We hear that it was insured.

The families thus rendered so suddenly houseless were taken in by the hospitable people of Milesburg, the family of Mr. Rager being temporarily located with Mrs. Zimmerman.

The surrounding houses were in danger and if the night had not been calm some of them would have burned. Water was thrown plentifully on the roofs.

Injuries which may Prove Fatal.

An unfortunate affair occurred at the works of the Bellefonte Nail and Iron Company on Thursday morning Two of the employes—Conrad Solt, who lives in the Bush row in this place, and Tom Draucher, son of Alex. Draucher, of Milesburg—had a dispute in regard to the proper division of steel plate. Mr Solt, who we understand had the right of the dispute, struck Draucher lightly with his hand. The latter thereupon picked up a "nipper" or "snuffer" rod—a wooden affair with iron on the end and really a very dangerous instrument—and struck Solt two or three severe blows on the back.

Solt sank to the ground, unable to speak and was carried into the boiler room. He is now at his home suffering severely. It is feared that his injuries may be fatal and they are almost certain to disable him for life. We understand that three ribs were severed from their connection with the backbone.

Miraculous Escape.

W. W. Reed, druggist, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "One of my customers, Mrs. Louisa Pike, Bartonia, Randolf Co., Ind., was a long sufferer with consumption, and was given up to die by her physicians. She heard of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and began buying it of me. In six month's time she walked to this city, a distance of six miles and is now so much improved she has quit using it. She feels she owes her life to it."

Wedding Bells.

We learn that a very pleasant wedding occurred on Thursday evening at Unionville. It was that of Mr. John C. Rumberger, the popular railroad agent at that place, to Miss Carrie A., daughter of Mr. Samuel Brugger. The fatal noose was drawn by Rev. L. Guyer About seventy-five invited guests were present. Mr. Rumberger built himself a very handsome residence, had his house nicely furnished and his larder filled with the necessaries of life—all ready to go to housekeeping. After the young people had enjoyed themselves to their heart's content in various parlor games and sports the bride and groom were escorted to their residence, where they were left to "paddle their own canoe" o'er life's stormy sea.

A fine reception was tendered them on Friday evening at the residence of G. W. Rumberger.

I Was troubled with catarrh and gathering in the head, was very deaf at times, had discharges from my ears, and was unable to breathe through my nose. Before the second bottle of Ely's Cream Balm was exhausted I was cured, and to-day enjoy sound health.—C. J. Corbin, 923 Chestnut St., Field Manager Philadelphia Pub. House, Pa.

I am on my second bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, being a sufferer from catarrh since I was a child, but with this medicine I am being cured.—Wm. L. Dayton, Brooklyn.

—Dr. Geissinger, the dentist on Allegheny street near Lyon's store, has a very handsome office and operating room. The floor is covered with a beautiful carpet and over the blue blinds inside, the Doctor has recently hung handsome lace curtains, which give the room a finished and rich appearance. His dental apartments cannot be surpassed for comfort and cheerfulness.

Never Give Up.

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. —An event occurred at Unionville, Thursday evening, which has created excitement. It was the death of a young girl named Lizzie McEwen, after only a few minutes illness. A consultation was held by the doctors over her body and they have kept the result of their examination secret. It is said that a young girl who was with her while sick has also become ill. It is also said that the corpse became black.

Curious to Think that desks and chairs kill people, but they do. Taken in large quantities office furniture is fatal as yellow fever. We sit and write ourselves away. Sedentary habits produce constipation; that begets dyspepsia; rheumatism and kidney trouble follow in their train, and death ends the chapter. You whose lives are passed over desks and in the confined air of offices ought to keep Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" always at hand for the stomach and brain.

—This year the programme of State College Commencement exercises will probably be altered in at least one particular. The Junior Oratorial contest, it is believed, will occur on Tuesday evening and the alumni exercises and address will all occur on Wednesday.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every house-owner, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $200 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $150 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $120 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer, to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money. RENNER MANUFACTURING CO.,
116 Smithfield St., Pittsburg, Pa.

LIKE HIS FATHER,

He Was Afflicted With Stone in the Bladder.

Mr. S. W. Hicks, of Pleasant Valley, Duchess County, N. Y., the son of Mr. E. S Hicks, whose name may have appeared in this journal in connection with an article similar to this, was, like his father, afflicted with Stone in the Bladder only that his case was more serious than his father's. The father advised his son to write to Dr David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who, he said would tell him what to do. Dr. Kennedy replied suggesting the use of KENNEDY'S FAVORIT REMEDY, which had worked so successfully in father's case. Mr. Hicks, who had been assured by the local physicians that they could do nothing more for him, tried FAVORITE REMEDY After two weeks' use of it he passed a stone ¾ of an inch long and of the thickness of a pipe stem Since then he has had no symptoms of a return of the trouble. Here is a sick man healed. What better results could have been expected? What greater benefit could medical science confer? The end was gained, that is surely enough. Dr. Kennedy assures the public, by a reputation which he cannot afford to imperil, that the FAVORITE REMEDY does invigorate the blood, cures liver kidney and bladder complaints, as well as all those ills and weaknesses peculiar to females.

Local Department.

—Roses are beginning to bloom.

—The air was decidedly cool Tuesday morning.

—Flower thieves continue to linger in this vicinity.

—The W. C. T. U. county convention to-day will be open to all.

—The receipts of Monday evening's entertainment reached about $90.

—The temperature is growing rapidly cooler. Look out for ice and frost.

—Get out your overcoat and hang away the linen duster and straw hat.

—The mail train east was late Wednesday morning—an unusual occurrence.

—The first rehearsal for the oratorio concert will take place this (Thursday) evening

—The Methodist ladies will inaugurate the strawberry festival season next Friday evening.

—The annual State Conclave of Knights Templar of Pennsylvania began at Scranton on Tuesday.

—Col. B. K Jameson and party were in Muncy, Lycoming county, on Tuesday with their tally-ho coach.

—G. Wash Rees says he is going to have the finest strawberries ever cultivated in this section.

—Although Memorial day occurs on Saturday this year, we hope that all business places will be closed.

—The choir of the Episcopal church rendered some very fine music during the service on Sunday evening.

—The Elmira base ball nine was defeated by the Williamsport club on the grounds of the former on Monday. Score 10 to 9.

—The heaviest thunder storm of the season was that of Monday evening. At times the brilliancy of the electric flashes was quite appalling.

—The walk through the court house yard is now wide enough to permit even a drunk man to make use of it without running off the track.

—Thunder and lightning storms have been lingering all around us for a few days past, but the rain has not descended in this immediate section.

—The Altoona base ball nine complain that they have been robbed of every game since they left home and accuse Umpire Jones of being the thief.

—Will there be any concerted movement on the part of manufacturers and merchants to close their business places either part or all of next Saturday?

—The gross receipts of the entertainments in Humes' Hall, Monday and Tuesday evenings, amounted to about $130. Net receipts will be about $100.

—Rev. Dr. D S. Monroe, of this place, delivered a lecture on the subject of "Temperance" in the Methodist church at Warriorsmark on Monday evening.

—The Clearfield strike formed the topic of editorial comment in the Philadelphia Times of Monday. It did not give any new information or ideas on the subject.

—C. G. McMillen was stage manager at Humes' Hall Monday evening. He is an adept at the business and his skill greatly aided in making everything pass off so smoothly.

—The Rink was well filled on Tuesday evening and Mr. D. H. Burwell, who is known as "the boy orator," spoke with eloquence and power. He will speak again this evening.

—The third annual county convention of the W. C. T. U, to-day will be an event of much interest. Several strangers who are prominent in temperance work will be present.

—The ladies of the Methodist church will give a strawberry festival on Friday and Saturday evenings and perhaps on Saturday afternoon. It will be held in the lecture room of the church.

—The Y M. C. A. meeting on Sunday was conducted by Mr. Frank Graw. Rev Dr. D. S. Monroe was present. He is the oldest member of the Y. M. C. A. in Bellefonte, having joined one of the first associations in the country in Baltimore in 1851 or '52.

—The presentation of the "White Pilgrim" at State College Friday evening was a grand success, the audience being large. The play is one of historical interest, the scene being laid in Finland many years ago. All the characters and costumes were very correct.

—Max Furey is a little boy about ten years old, and is a great fellow to raise chickens. On Monday, therefore, when one of his hens presented him with eleven little "peepies," his delight was unbounded. Besides the little chicks, he now has nine hens and one rooster.

—The W. C. T. U. prepare for their conventions and other meetings in a way that is indicative of excellent taste and which adds to the popularity of that organization. At present they are preparing for a county convention, to be held on the 27th inst, at 10 a. m., in Y. M. C. A. hall. It will be an interesting and profitable gathering.

The Memorial Sermon.

The congregation that gathered in the Methodist church Sunday morning to listen to Rev. Dr. D. S. Monroe was a very large one, filling the sacred edifice and requiring a few seats in the aisles for those who came late. About fifty comrades of Gregg Post, G. A. R, were present, occupying seats in the front part of the centre of the church. A large choir rendered the music. Rev. J. A. Woodcock made the first prayer. It was a very eloquent petition. After reading two selections of Scripture for the morning lesson Rev. Dr. D S. Monroe announced as his text the 58th verse of the 15th chapter of St. Paul's first letter to the Corinthians:

"Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

The discourse was one of the finest sermons we have ever heard. It was replete with fine sentiment, the soundest Christian doctrine and healthful moral lessons. The speaker reverted to the custom, forty centuries old, of honoring the valliant dead by strewing flowers on their graves. Athens so honored her heroes.

The peculiar appropriateness of the words of the text consisted in the fact that the same requirements equip for the Christian warfare that were necessary for the conflict through which the scarred veterans before him had passed—steadfastness, perseverance and courage.

The Doctor spoke for an hour on these points, referring to manuscript only occasionally. We would be pleased to publish the sermon entire if space would permit. It was so impressive and enforced by such weight of argument as to edify and greatly benefit all who heard it and we do not believe that there was one of the vast congregation who went away without feeling better for having been there.

In the evening the reverend gentleman delivered a discourse of great interest from the words in the 28th and 29th verses of the 3d chapter of St. Mark:

"Verily I say unto you, All sins shall be forgiven unto the sons of men, and blasphemies wherewithsoever they shall blaspheme.

"But he that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost, hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation."

The church was again thronged and the instructive sermon was listened to intently.

IN THE LUTHERAN CHURCH.

Large congregations listened to Rev. Chas. Steck on Sunday. His discourse in the evening was delivered with his usual eloquence and was eminently practical in its teachings. The 4th chapter of St. John's gospel, 14th verse, was the place from whence he chose his text, "But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up unto eternal life."

Rev. Mr. Steck's morning discourse was based on the words in Ezekiel 36:31, "Then shall ye remember your own evil ways and your doings that were not good, and shall loathe yourselves in your own sight for your iniquities."

IN THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Rev. John R R. Robinson's discourse in the Episcopal church, Sunday evening, was drawn from part of the 8th verse of the 16th chapter of St. Luke, "For the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light."

Rifle Practice.

The following order in reference to the season of rifle practice in the National Guards, which opens June 1 and closes November 1, was issued last week:

"The commanders of the several brigades and regiments for which no inspectors of rifle practice have been detailed will on receipt of this order forward to Major George L. Breck, Acting General Inspector of Rifle Practice at Scranton, the names of the commissioned officers for detail and the names of all the inspectors of rifle practice heretofore detailed by the General Inspector of Rifle Practice. Companies hereafter will be required to qualify as marksman 25 per cent. of the maximum strength in season to entitle them to the prescribed allowance of amunition and commutation for range and powder the succeeding year. Members of teams are given the privilege of using reloaded ammunition if they so desire, provided the weight of powder and ball is the same as issued by U. S. Government, viz: Seventy grains powder and 500 grains lead. Position in matches, standing at 200 yards, and at 500 and 600 yards. Members of the National Guard having in their possession 45 calibre Springfield M. B. L. rifles, five groove barrel, are allowed to use the same in matches, also qualifying as marksman. Square tips on front sights of 45 calibre rifles are allowed provided same do not interfere with the proper adjustment of the bayonet."

—Quite a large number of mourners followed to the tomb, Monday morning, at 10 o'clock, the body of little Annie Eliza, infant daughter of Mr. David Barlett. The death of this little child was recorded on Monday. She was 2 years and 8 months of age. We sympathise heartily with the relatives in their bereavement.

A Fine Entertainment in Humes' Hall.

Although the weather, Monday evening, was about as unfavorable as it possibly could be for entertainments of any description, yet many ventured through the streets, while a great thunder storm was gathering and the lightning with its lurid flashes illuminating the heavens, to Humes' Hall, and if we may judge by the enthusiastic exclamations of delight and approval and the continued interest manifested on all sides, the entertainment was most thoroughly enjoyed.

Whenever the curtain was lifted it displayed a most beautiful and interesting scene. Perhaps a more delightful little comedy was never composed than that which bears the somewhat unmeaning title, "A Lesson in Love." It is a drama in high life. Three ladies fair and three gentlemen move through scenes of a most sentimental and ridiculous description over which the god Cupid reigns with undisputed sway, but cuts up more capers with the susceptible hearts of the dramatis personæ than are usually accredited even to him.

There are three acts and in each one of them the ladies appear in most rich and elegant costumes—truly "poems" in silk, satin and lace.

Mrs. Sutherland, (Miss Kate Jackson) a self-possessed and charming woman of the world, is a widow, and employs all her immense resources of art to bring about a match between a certain Capt. Freeman (Harry Keller) and a lovely young lady named Miss Edith Leslie (Miss May Barrett). Capt. Freeman is not successful as a lover and exasperates Mrs. Sutherland by his failure to properly wage his suit. He is also opposed by a rival, Mr. Middlemark (Scott Harris), who by his impassioned poetry and truly lover-like ways would have quickly captivated Miss Leslie's heart had not Mrs. Sutherland foiled every move.

There are two others—Miss Anastasia Winternury (Miss Annie Orvis) and Mr. Babblebrook (James Hughes) Miss Anastasia is a maiden of forty, who is yet as susceptible as a young girl of sixteen and is glad to receive all the love which the gentlemen are disposed at different times to extend to her. Mr Babblebrook does not make love especially to any one, but in his role as an interloper, is always where he should not be, witnessing scenes not intended for the eyes of any except the birds and quickly relates what he has seen to others. Thus he plays an important part in aiding or obstructing the course of true love. Before the drama ends both Mr. Middlemark and Capt. Freeman are desperately in love with Mrs. Sutherland. But here Capt. Freeman shows he has profited by his lessons and woos with success. Then Mr. Middlemark directs his suit to Miss Leslie and the drama closes with all satisfied.

Some of the lines were repeated with so much naturalness that involuntary applause was elicted from the audience All moved along without one mistake, and where all was so excellent we shall not speak particularly of any.

There were duets, solos and quartettes by Miss Valentine, Miss Bradley, Mrs. Geo. Bible, Dr. Harris and Mr. John Musser. Each one of these is worth special mention, though we have not space for it.

The wax figures included representations of a dozen or more different scenes in past and present life, and drawn from history and poetry, which Mr. Jarley (Col. D. H. Hastings) made more real and entertaining by a happy and humorous description.

He is Here.

A newspaper at Butler, Pa., has the following in reference to Mr. D. H. Burwell, the boy orator, who is be in Bellefonte this week and conducting a series of temperance meetings in the Rink. The extract is as follows:

Mr. D. H. Burwell, known as the "boy orator," addressed a large audience in the Presbyterian church of this place on Saturday evening last, and another still larger one in the Methodist church on Sunday evening. His general subject is is temperance, and his youthful appearance, fine voice and earnest and eloquent delivery kept the attention of all closely upon him and what he said. That he is bright and talented cannot be questioned. That he is doing much good is equally without question. Being a native of western Pennsylvania the more interest is manifested to hear him, and if he progresses in the future as in the past his career cannot but be a brilliant one, and his fame become more widely extended."

—The law against gift-store lotteries, enacted by the last legislature, goes into effect the 2d of June, and those who may be liable to its penalties should make note of its provisions. It is enacted, "That any merchant, manufacturer, importer, retailer or dealer doing business within this Commonwealth who shall offer, give or sell, or authorize or permit any agent, salesman or employe to offer, give or sell any purchaser or customer any ticket or tickets, check or checks, or other token of memoranda, entitling such purchaser or customer to demand or receive money or any article of value, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be sentenced to pay a fine not less than ten nor exceeding one hundred dollars or suffer imprisonment not exceeding one year, or either or both, at the discretion of the court."

Order for Memorial Day.

HEADQUARTERS GREGG POST, 95,
DEPARTMENT OF PA., G. A. R
BELLEFONTE, May 24, 1886.

GENERAL ORDER, No. 1.

The 30th day of May brings Memorial day, and as it falls on Sunday, Saturday, May 29, will be observed by Gregg Post, No. 95, G. A. R., in the following manner:

I. All comrades who can do so will assemble at the Post room on Saturday morning, 29th inst., at 9 o'clock, to assist the committee in placing markers upon the graves of soldiers buried in the cemeteries within the Borough of Bellefonte.

II. Comrades will reassemble at Post room in full uniform and white gloves at 2 o'clock p. m., same day, preparatory to forming parade and completing memorial services in Union Cemetery.

III. The following organizations have been invited and are expected to take part:

Co. B, 5th Reg't., N. G. Pa.
Logan Hose Company.
Boys' Branch, Y. M. C. A.

They will report to the Adjutant at 2½ o'clock, sharp, in Diamond Square in front of Court House, where they will be assigned their positions in line of parade.

IV. The line will be formed as follows:

Co. B, 5th Reg't., N. G. of Pa.
Gregg Post, No. 95, G. A. R, in uniform.

Logan Hose Company, No. 1.
Boys' Branch, Y. M. C. A.
And all organizations and citizens who will participate in parade.

V. The parade will be formed with the right resting on the north side of High street and will move at three o'clock promptly, by wheeling into platoons and marching over the following route: Down High St, to Spring, Spring to Bishop, Bishop to Allegheny, Allegheny to Howard, up Howard to Union Cemetery, where the decoration of graves and memorial services will be completed.

VI. The column will then reform and return by Howard St. to Spring, Spring to High, down High, counter march and be dismissed in front of Post Headquarter,

By order of
JOHN NOLL,
Post Commander.

A Home-Like Hotel.

"The Place of Rest in Penns Valley," as the Musser House in Millheim might be called, is a house that has a history. If you appreciate solid comforts in hotels you can find all you want at the Musser House, under the management of the proprietor, Mr. William Musser These comforts are of the home-like kind that the weary traveler finds so exceedingly grateful. The tables being entirely under the careful supervision of Mrs. Musser, they lack none of the "good things of life," the edibles being so well prepared that a man is likely to gorge himself to the fullest extent, and even dyspeptics need have no fear of eating at he table in this hotel.

The kindest attention, too, is given to the guests in every respect, especially in the way of very comfortable beds. Mr. and Mrs. Musser spare no pains in having the beds and rooms arranged in the very best style. Indeed, one is loath to leave this "home for the traveling public," because it seems like the most pleasant place he has encountered in all his travels.

Millheim Matters.

The new cab at the Musser House is doing a good business under the management of Mr. G. W. Cummings. George understands his business and takes good care of his passengers.

The brick work has been commenced on the new hardware store. The weather has not been favorable for making brick as very dry weather is required. Mr. Jesse Stewart, one of Bellefonte's ingenious citizens, is supplying the brick made according to his new process.

Mr. S. W. Murry and wife, of Murry, Dugal & Co., of Milton, Pa., and Prof. Borin, a young French gentleman, were guests at the Musser House last week.

—The storm at Curtin Station and in the vicinity of Mt. Eagle on Saturday afternoon and evening was very severe. The wind blew furiously, almost prostrating some buildings, and the thunder and lightning were frightful. The electric fluid struck Stein's mill, near Curtin, and had it not been for the rod on the building the consequences might have been disastrous. Three gentlemen were sitting in the business office, two of them being slightly shocked. Near Mt. Eagle two large trees were struck by lightning. One of them—a tree perhaps eighteen inches in diameter—was severed a few inches above the trunk and the other was shivered completely to pieces, so that only jagged pieces of wood are left standing.

—When the chilling blasts of Winter sweep down upon perspiring humanity on the 25th and 26th of May, just after two or three quite warm days, they at first produce refreshing sensations. But that is soon changed to feelings of indignation with the weather for behaving so changeably. When overcoats and fur-trimmed sacques are required on May 25, as was the case last night, one is prone to believe that no such season as Summer is known to this region.

Sunday-school Convention at Centre Line.

The annual Sunday-school convention of the Altoona district of the United Brethren church convened at Centre Line on the 18th inst. People were present from many miles around and were greatly interested. The exercises were held in the little white church on the hill

Rev. L. A. Zeeke, pastor in charge, made an eloquent address of welcome, which was responded to by J. A. Clemm, the presiding elder of the district.

"Sunday-school Conventions," as the first topic on the programme, was discussed by Rev. H. P. Shupe, of Tyrone, and then by others. The convention continued its sessions during Tuesday evening, Wednesday forenoon, afternoon and evening The house during each session was filled to its utmost capacity.

The subjects discussed were practical Sunday-school work, much of it well demonstrated on the blackboard. The much debated question of temperance, which has so much vexed the good people of Huntingdon, Centre, Blair and other counties during the late license campaign, should prohibition be taught in Sunday schools, was discussed at length ably and pointedly.

Good music was rendered by the church choir. The visiting delegates were hospitably entertained and united in a vote of thanks to the good people of Half Moon valley for their kind entertainment.

At the Rink

The Gospel Temperance and Prohibition meeting held at the Rink last night was in every way a marked success. Perhaps the best comment is furnished in the suggestion, that those going tonight should go early, for the reputation which preceded the advent of the evangelist, was more than fully sustained. He is a boy, but uses a full grown man's weapons. He is ruddy-cheeked like David, and like the latter, seeks to do battle with monsters of oppression and iniquity. Yet in his arraignment of the evil entailed upon our country by the liquor traffic, his indictment is notably free from personal abuse.

The manner of the orator is singularly conciliatory, and at once wins the sympathy and retains all through the close attention of the audience. His enthusiasm is catching, and of all the hundreds present last night not one but was greatly moved, and filled with a new and better purpose to aid in the grand work of rescue.

The advice of the writer of this imperfect notice is, "Come and see" and hear for yourself. L.

A Deserved Compliment.

At the late annual meeting of the National Reform Association, the W. C. T. U. was recognized in the following resolution:

Resolved, That the National Reform Association, in convention assembled, declares its high sense of the value of the work done by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, not only in behalf of temperance but in the cause of Christian government, especially through their department of Sabbath observance. With a wisdom, courage and fidelity which we are persuaded have been a special endowment from on high, they are pressing on the nation the law of Christ as the only standard of legislation on moral questions. We rejoice in their successes, and implore for them the continued blessing and guidance of our common Lord.

—On the 19th of May the nineteenth annual council of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Nebraska met in Omaha Neb., Rev. John Hewitt, of Fremont, Neb., delivering the principal sermon. It was on the miracle of 'Feeding the Five Thousand," and is published in full in the Daily Republican, of Omaha We also notice that he was present at a grand banquet given in Fremont on the 20th inst., when he responded to a toast, "The Press." The Fremont Herald says of him: "Mr. Hewitt, though comparatively a new-comer in the state, has already won for himself an enviable name for his zeal and ability in his chosen field, as well as for his estimable qualities as a man and a public-spirited citizen."

—Let all manufacturing institutions close next Saturday, the 29th, when the memorial ceremonies will be held. The grocery stores should keep open a few hours in the morning, to permit all to purchase the necessaries for that day and Sunday, but all should close by 12 o'clock m., and remain closed the rest of the day. This programme, if carried out, will be satisfactory to all, and no one will lose greatly by it.

—We are sorry to hear that the growth of wheat which promised so excellently in the Spring appears to be almost entirely ruined. Worms of an unknown kind and destructive in their ravages are appearing at the roots of the plants. Some farmers, who have what a few weeks ago were thought to be prolific fields of wheat, fear that they will not have any at all to harvest.

—Another fiendish attempt was made Saturday night to burn Keller's Woolen Mill at Houserville. A light was seen in the building and those who entered found that a fire had been started which was quickly extinguished. The incendiary escaped. His identity however, is suspected, and a careful guard is now kept, day and night, on the building.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. John Newson, of Howard, spent Monday night in Bellefonte.

Lee Woodcock, Esq., of Altoona, spent Sunday with his brother, Rev. J. A. Woodcock.

Mr. F. W. Crider has recovered from his illness sufficiently to be out, but is not entirely well.

Rev. R. A. Kline, rector of Episcopal church in Allentown, Pa., is visiting his relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. James Hamill, of Oak Hall, visited Humes' Hall Monday evening and gave the entertainment his attention.

Miss Sue Jack, of Boalsburg, graced the comedy entertainment by her presence on Monday evening.

Mr. G. W. Page, of Wayne, Clinton county, was in Bellefonte Tuesday. He is an expert miller and an agreeable young gentleman.

Jimmie Kinsloe is back again from Osceola where he spent the past week at the home of his parents. He enjoyed his visit.

Gen. W. H. Blair departed Wednesday to join the other gentlemen connected with the committee of visitors to West Point Academy.

Mr. Martin Fleck, an agreeable citizen living at Axe Mann (Boiling Spring) called Saturday and also attended to other business in town.

Miss Kate Jackson and Miss Nitt were indefatigable in their efforts to perfect the entertainment given Monday night and succeeded admirably.

Miss Effie Straub, daughter of Mr. Levi Straub, of Altoona, after spending a couple of weeks visiting friends in this vicinity, departed Monday.

Charley Pierce, law student with Judge Orvis, after spending several weeks in Clearfield attending to legal business, has returned to Bellefonte.

Prof. Reeves, one of the very best of the instructors now at the State College, was in Bellefonte Saturday morning and made himself agreeable as usual.

Samuel C. Bower, executor of the estate of his father, the late Mr. C. Bower of Mt. Eagle, was in Bellefonte Saturday attending to business affairs.

Mr. C. L Gates visited his home in Loveville on Friday and returned Saturday morning accompanied by his mother, Mrs. David Gates, who remained until Monday.

Mr. J. C. Showers, who has been operating a mill at Cresson for Mr. Cook, finished his work there on Friday and will remain for a while at his home in this place.

Mr. S. A. Stover says that his visit to Philadelphia was not one for pleasure, but rather for business. He secured a new and elegant supply of materials for his marble yard.

Mr. J. H. Moyer, of Spring Mills, is at present engaged in getting out large quantities of lumber and bark for F. H. Snyder. Mr. Moyer has in his employ some of the best woodsmen in Penns Valley.

The statement that Rev. Chas. Steck, of this place, will deliver the Memorial address at Unionville is probably incorrect, as we hear that he is to be in Scranton on the 31st instant for that purpose.

Miss Sallie Gardiner, of Rock Springs, this county, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. A. J. Mattern, in Tyrone for the past week. She starts this week for the West, to visit relatives in Minnesota and Illinois, expecting to remain there about a year.

S. Durbin Gray, Esq., and wife came to town Saturday on the 9:32 train. Mr. Gray has grown stronger since resting at his home in the country. They are now quartered at Rev. Wm. Laurie's residence, and of course all friends are delighted to see them.

Dr. C. M. Boardner, D.D.S., who spent a long time with Dr. A. W. Hafer last Summer, is again at Dr. Hafer's residence here to remain a few days. He has been spending the Winter at a dental college, where he took the highest honor in the college for proficiency in gold filling.

—It is reported in the Altoona Tribune that the miners held a meeting at Philipsburg Monday morning at which it was decided that they will stay out, induce those now at work all through the region to come out and not yield until the operators agree to pay them the fifty cents per ton and sign the scale for one year. A committee was appointed to go to Cumberland to bring the men out there. Two other meetings were held Monday night, the one at Osceola and the other at Houtzdale. It is presumed that the result at both places was the same as at Philipsburg.

—Quite a large audience assembled in Humes' Hall Tuesday evening to witness a repetition of the comedy, "A Lesson in Love," and a few tableaux which followed it.
